Mrs. Adams Chosen Again as Head of County Red Cross

Rest of Officers Re-elected to Posts; November Is Called Ideal for Fund Drive

Mrs. Samuel J. Adams of Saugerties was re-elected chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, at the annual organization meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night at the Chapter House, Clinton avenue.

M. Donald Lane for the nominating committee, presented the following names for re-election: Chairman, Mrs. Samuel J. Adams; vice chairmen, Frederick Hoffman and Mrs. William H. Merrill; treasurer, Oscar J. Lawatsch; secretary, Miss Sara J. Israel. There were no other nominations and the slate presented by the nominating committee was elected.

Committee Chairmen

Chairmen of the various committees were announced by Mrs. Adams as follows:

Personnel, C. E. Burnett; finance, Fred Hoffman; home service, Mrs. Gerard W. Betz; disaster, preparedness and relief, Walter T. Tremper was temporarily continued as chairman; blood program, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly; nursing service, Mrs. John R. Roberts; safety service, Harold A. Sanford; volunteer services, Mrs. William H. Merrill. Other sub-committees will be announced by the chairmen later.

Honor Codwise

The board of directors adopted a resolution on the recent death of G. Wallace Codwise who served the chapter as chairman and was very active in Red Cross work for a long period of years. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to his family.

There was also a discussion on the request of the Red Cross Board of Governors for an expression from chapters on the timing for the annual fund campaign which is now held in March. The opinion of at least 75 per cent of the chapters is being sought to gain an idea as to most advantageous time for holding the annual fund drive.

Ulster Picks November

The Ulster County Chapter selected as its choice the month of November, a month which several years ago was designated as Red Cross Fund month. The 1953 fund campaign will not be affected by any change in policy and the board of directors discussed the fund campaign and de-

Lower Grocery Prices Seen Possible With Dip in Farm Items

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—A dip of two per cent in average farm prices, with meat and potatoes leading the drop, held out some hope today for lower grocery bills.

The decline in prices of farm products as a whole during the month that ended Sept. 15 was reported late yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

At the same time the department said average prices paid by farmers dipped only one per cent so that farm prices averaged 101 per cent of parity, compared with 103 per cent both a month and a year ago.

Parity is a standard used to compute farm prices that give farmers a fair purchasing power judged by a past favorable period. The most favorable recent period for farmers was October 1946 when farm prices averaged 122 per cent of parity.

Son Stabs Father In Family Fight

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A 27-year-old machinist was charged with homicide early today in the fatal stabbing of his father last night in a family argument.

The machinist, Oscar G. Laubacher, Jr., was quoted by police as saying his father "was drunk and hit my mother."

Young Laubacher stood in the doorway of the family's home at College Point, Queens, his arms around his sobbing mother, as police arrived.

On the living room floor was the body of the father, Oscar, 52.

Two Arrests Are Result of Crash

William Rice Is Injured When Taxi, Car Collide

William Rice, 60, of 141 Pine Grove avenue was injured in a car-taxi mishap at Washington avenue and North Front street after which the drivers arrested each other early today.

The cab owned by Perry's Taxi Service Inc., of 604 Broadway, and driven by Curtis W. Thies, 41, of 80 Marius street, jumped the curb and damaged a plate glass window and frame of Harry A. Wood's tavern at 391 Washington avenue.

Rice, who is caretaker of the Forsyth Park zoo, was taken by ambulance to the Benedictine Hospital for treatment of injuries to the right shoulder and X-rays. He was riding in the cab.

The police report at 6:40 a. m., by Officers Kenneth Stratton and Carl Janasiewicz, said the taxi was headed west on North Front street, and the other car, owned and operated by Noble Jesse Garrison, 46, of West Hurley, was going south on Washington avenue.

Thies and Garrison arrested each other on charges of reckless driving after the mishap. Each pleaded not guilty before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today, and the cases were postponed until tomorrow morning to allow them time to obtain counsel.

A hospital report later this morning indicated that Rice was expected to be discharged after X-rays were taken.

Browders in Jail

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Earl Browder, former number one Communist in America, and his wife were in jail today. They were unable to raise bail of $2,500 each after the FBI seized them suddenly yesterday. The government accuses them of lying about Mrs. Browder's Communist background in 1949 when she was seeking American citizenship. Both she and Browder swore she never was a Red, it was charged. Pleading of the case is set for next Monday.

Judith Feels 'Fine'

Philadelphia, Oct. 1 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Judith Schmidt—proof positive that the heart can be stopped long enough for major surgery—was up and around today and feeling fine. Twelve days ago the Cleveland, O., girl spent 12 hours in regular kitchen-type deep freeze to enable Hahnemann Hospital surgeons to stop her heart for five minutes and mend a hole the size of a 50-cent piece.

Murphy Arrives Home

Seattle, Oct. 1 (AP)—The navy Transport Gen. Simon B. Buckner arrived Monday with 1,000 troops from the Far East, among them Pfc. Timothy Murphy, Box 52, RFD 2, New Paltz road, Highland.

Insane Man Held On Murder Charge After Bank Holdup

One Policeman Is Killed, Another Wounded in Chase of Escaped Inmate

East Providence, R. I., Oct 1 (AP)—A pint-sized mental patient who killed one policeman and wounded another yesterday after a reckless $51,000 bank holdup was held under heavy guard today awaiting arraignment on a murder charge.

Five-foot Louis Difraia, 27, of Providence, thrice escaped from the Rhode Island State Hospital for Mental Diseases, robbed a branch of the Industrial Trust Co. at rifle-point. Chased into Pawtucket, he forced his way into a home, held two women hostages and shot down the two officers in a furious gun battle. Tear gas eventually forced him to give up.

Difraia—described by Dr. John R. Regan, superintendent of the mental hospital, as a man with "a serious type of mental disorder"—spent last night in a hospital bed manacled to two policemen. He had been wounded in the right arm before his surrender, and another bullet had creased his skull.

Dodgers Score 1st Run in Series Game

Brooklyn, Oct. 1 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees were tied, 1 to 1, after the first three innings of their opening World Series game today on home runs by Jackie Robinson in the second and Gil McDougald in the top half of the third.

A capacity crowd of 34,000 was on hand in the cloudy and warm weather.

The starting lineups:

Yankees	Dodgers
Bauer, rf	Cox, 3b
Rizzuto, ss	Reese, ss
Mantle, cf	Snider, cf
Berra, c	Robinson, 2b
Collins, 1b	Campenella, c
Noren, lf	Pafko, lf
McDougald, 3b	Hodges, 1b
Martin, 2b	Furillo, rf
Reynolds (20-8) p	Black (15-4) p

Umpires:
Pinelli (NL) plate; Passarella (AL) 1b; Goetz (NL) 2b; McKinley (AL) 3b; Boggess (NL) lf; Honochick (AL) rf.

First Inning Yankees

Mantle, swinging at 3-2 pitch, popped to Reese at edge of outfield grass.

First Inning Dodgers

Reese struck out.

Mantle took Snider's high fly behind second base.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Yankees

Berra's sharp grounder skidded off Hodge's glove but Robinson retrieved the ball and tossed to Black for the out. Hodges gets an assist.

Collins sent a high fly to Furillo in short right.

Noren raised a high pop to Reese.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Robinson walloped a home run, on a 3 and 2 pitch, into lower left

Adlai Hits GOP on Its Red Charge

Can't See How Agencies Can Be Cleared of Communists Easily as Republicans Say

Ike Keeps Striking

Stevenson Likes Smith's Second Statement on Intelligence Agency

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bore down on the Communists-in-government issues today with a stand that the GOP is making a "ludicrous" claim it could easily end Red penetration of federal agencies.

The Democratic presidential nominee and his staff intensified, too, efforts to win over independent and other voters through a nationwide organization of volunteers for Stevenson. Some 200 leaders of volunteer units from 37 states assembled here today for a major political rally.

Stevenson could find time only for a brief reception for them tonight at the gubernatorial mansion.

The Illinois governor was busy, among other things, on a speech for next week to be built almost entirely on the explosive Communist issue.

At the same time, he took steps to head off any exploitation by his Republican rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's statement that Smith believes, or at least operates on the assumption, there are Communists even in the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which Smith heads.

GOP Take Advantage

Republicans seized on Smith's original statement, that he believes all intelligence agencies including the CIA have been infiltrated, in support of their contention the present administration has been lax in going after Reds in government. The head of the CIA made his statement in a legal proceeding in Washington.

Eisenhower at first was reported to be injecting the question of Communist penetration of intelligence agency into a speech for a midwestern campaign tour starting today.

But later a spokesman on the general's campaign train said Eisenhower would do nothing to endanger the security of this country or the CIA, although he intends to keep on hitting subversives in government.

And a spokesman for the Republican National Committee said in Washington that neither the committee or Eisenhower intends to make a "political football" of the Smith statements. Stevenson had warned against any effort in that direction.

Smith Backs Down

Smith backed down a bit from his original statement. He got out another to the effect that what he really meant to say was that any intelligence agency must be on constant guard and would be "criminally negligent" if it did not operate on the assumption that Reds have been able to make a penetration.

Gen. Smith told reporters the CIA never should become involved in a political campaign and that he had sent his second statement to President Truman and to candidates Eisenhower and Stevenson.

Stevenson seized last night on Smith's statement Number 2, and

Thousands Are Sent To Nixons, Returned

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Contributions totalling thousands of dollars have been made to the Nixon family—but not accepted—since the Republican vice presidential nominee gave an account of his personal finances a week ago.

Members of Sen. Richard Nixon's campaign staff acknowledged today the receipt of many letters enclosing donations ranging from $1 to $100 in cash and checks, with the senders making it clear "this is for the Nixons."

The money is being returned as it is received and no accurate total has been kept. Staff members said it amounts to "several thousand dollars."

HST Whacks Ike On Power as Acting As Monopoly Aide

Hatchet Man Takes Swing at Eisenhower as One Opposing Public Benefits

Aboard Truman Train, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman, dedicating the $108,000,000 Hungry Horse Dam, today accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of turning against such projects after learning "the Republican party line."

Truman said the Republican presidential nominee is talking "like one of the lobbyists for the private power monopolies" and if he is elected, "it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind."

It was another speech in the President's coolly-calculated attempt to destroy Eisenhower's prestige in a "give 'em hell" campaign tour from coast to coast.

Truman is working the role of the Democratic party's "hatchet man" as the Republicans labeled him—with the calm and relentless assurance of a veteran campaigner going about familiar work.

Leaving his campaign train at Columbia Falls, Mont., he viewed the dam and drove on to Kalispell for a dedicatory speech in the high school gymnasium.

Tells Them to Look

"All of you who are here today had better go over and take another look at this dam, because if the Republicans win this election, it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind," Truman said.

"The Republican candidate for president made it perfectly plain in a speech in Boise, Ida., a few weeks ago that he was against dams like this," the President added.

And he said Eisenhower now accepts the "old guard view that dams like Hungry Horse, and government transmission lines, and low cost public power" are part of the "creeping socialism" of which—as Truman said it—the slogan writers for the power monopolies talk.

Eisenhower, Truman said, has "adopted the line of the private power monopoly."

Hungry Horse, the world's fourth largest, third highest concrete dam, towers 564 feet above the bed of the south fork of the Flat Head river. It has a power plant capacity of 285,000 kilowatts.

The water is rising slowly behind the huge barrier, which will impound 3,500,000 acre feet of water in a lake 3 miles long, three and a half miles wide and 500 feet at its deepest point.

Says It's Part of System

Truman said Eisenhower had accepted the view such projects

McGrath Is Cited in Report As Not Desiring Any Probe

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—House investigators said today that former Atty.-Gen. J. Howard McGrath showed "no enthusiasm" for a Justice Department clean-up—rather, he "appeared to wish to delay and frustrate investigation."

From their findings, investigators said, it appears clear that the Justice Department under McGrath wanted to prevent an examination of its files for reasons which "cannot but arouse suspicion."

McGrath, fired last April 3 by President Truman after the administration clean-up drive bogged down, was raked over for a second time in Part 2 of a report by a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

Chapter One of the report, issued last Monday, criticized McGrath's appointment of Newbold Morris, New York lawyer, to head the clean-up campaign and questioned McGrath's good faith in making the appointment.

In reply, McGrath commented simply that "the report is beneath the dignity of men who care to be honest and honorable."

Advised of today's second installment, the former attorney general told a reporter he had no intention of "engaging in a cross fire of discussion on each of the committee's interim reports."

In today's installment — the third is due next week — the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chelf (D.-Ky.), pictures McGrath as an official who exhibited "a deplorable lack of knowledge of the department he was supposed to administer." It adds:

"His testimony and his record as attorney general indicate that he was content to let the status quo remain without knowing what the status quo was."

In particular, investigators said of McGrath:

1. He made "inappropriate appointments to high office."

2. He had little interest in purging the Justice Department of "wrongdoers and incompetents."

3. He failed "completely" to cooperate with chief committee investigators, and "surrounded himself with subordinates of the same view."

Investigators added, however, that "in fairness to Mr. McGrath" it should be noted the majority of his subordinates were originally placed in top positions by Tom Clark, McGrath's predecessor who now is a supreme court justice.

The report devoted considerable space to the committee's difficulties in obtaining information from the Justice Department prior to the appointment of James P. McGranery as attorney general.

Air Force Says 30 Planes Lost by Allies; Bagged 62

29 Yoshida Aides Win in Election

Liberal Party Has 55 Seats in Parliament; Reds Fail to Get One

Tokyo, Oct. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida got solid backing as 29 of his supporters, including three cabinet ministers, won Diet (Parliament) seats today in Japan's first completely free election since World War 2.

Yoshida's Liberal party captured 55 of 80 seats decided in early returns. Of the Liberal party victors, 16 support Ichiro Hatoyama, former leader of the party who is waging a hot battle to regain control.

The Communists have failed to win a seat. Left wing Socialists have taken six. Others were scattered.

In his own district, Yoshida seemed certain of keeping his seat.

May Win 466 Seats

Yoshida's dominant Liberal party was expected to win the greatest number of the 466 Parliament seats sought by 1,243 candidates.

His main fight was within his own party. His leadership has been challenged by Ichiro Hatoyama, founder of the Liberals and head of the party until he was purged from political life by the allied occupation.

Hatoyama turned over the party reigns to Yoshida in 1946 and the latter guided Japan's government through the occupation.

Hatoyama is not anti-American. His differences with Yoshida are over financial policy. Yoshida wants a stable budget. Hatoyama is willing for Japan to have an unbalanced budget if it will get big industry rolling again.

Her First Vote at 93

Martinsburg, W. V., Oct. 1—Mrs. Dollie Lamon Teillard, whose father was Abraham Lincoln's law partner, will vote for the first time in November, and for the Republican presidential candidate too. Although 93-year-old Mrs. Teillard practically grew up in the lap of politics, she was living in France when women won the right to vote in 1920. And after returning to this country about 12 years ago, she lived in Washington, D. C., where residents do not have the right to vote. She moved here more than a year ago—long enough to qualify for this year's election. She says she plans to vote for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Swedes Sell Planes

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Swedish Air Force is selling 57 Mustang fighter planes—25 to Israel and 32 to the Dominican Republic. The Swedes said they don't need the planes—which they've used for about six years—because they're switching to jets.

Seven Jets Are Among Those Downed—Big Raid Is Made at Namsan

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today reported 30 allied planes were lost to all causes in September. But it said only seven of its jet fighters were shot down in the furious air battles which cost the Communists a record 62 MIG-15s destroyed. The previous one month record for MIGs downed was 44, set last April.

The announcement came soon after the allies opened another month of air blows with a massive B-29 attack against a sprawling chemical plant only 40 yards from the Manchurian border. An armada of 48 Superforts dropped about 425 tons of high explosives on the Namsan plant in one of the biggest B-29 raids of the year.

Seven Jets Lost

The air force said four F-86 Sabre jets and three F-84 Thunderjets were lost in air battles; five allied planes lost to Communist ground fire and 18 other warplanes lost to "other causes," which were not reported.

Blood Bank Gets Record Demands

An unprecedented call for blood was received by the City of Kingston Blood Bank on Monday and Tuesday of this week. A total of 54 pints of blood and five pints of plasma were delivered in a short period of time to break all previous records of the bank.

On Tuesday night an acute surgical emergency developed at one of the local hospitals and the blood bank supplied 17 pints of blood and four pints of plasma to a single patient in a period of five hours.

In addition to locally available blood an additional pint of a rare type was procured from Poughkeepsie through the assistance of the State Police of the Highland barracks who were able to deliver the blood to the patient in a phenomenally short period of time. The call was sent to the Highland barracks at 11:05 p. m. and the troopers went to Poughkeepsie, secured the necessary blood and arrived at the hospital here at 11:30 p. m. The trooper who carried the blood apologized to the hospital officials for the "delay" stating that fog along the route had hampered the delivery.

At the blood bank it was stated that the adequacy of the blood bank to meet any emergency in the county is a tribute to the cooperation and generosity of the people of Ulster county. Presently there is a serious need for replenishment of the supply.

Accuses Administration

By DON WHITEHEAD

Aboard the Eisenhower Special Oct. 1 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower accused the administration today of crushing a bipartisan approach to foreign policy by trying to take all the credit for the good things and blaming Republicans for the bad.

He promised that if elected President he would cooperate with Democrats and make them "real partners" in working out basic foreign policies.

Eisenhower gave this declaration in a speech prepared for delivery at Flint, Mich., as he carried his time-for-a-change campaign westward on a 28-state drive that could make or break his presidential hopes.

Optimism was running high on this push through Michigan into states that will have 361 electoral votes out of the 531 total — or more than enough to swing the election in his favor if he can carry them.

Praises Vandenberg

The GOP presidential nominee chose Flint as the point to give high praise to the late Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Sr., of Michigan, who was a strong exponent of a bipartisan foreign policy.

He said Vandenberg saw that no nation, no matter how strong, could win security by its own efforts alone—and that collective security meant "enlightened self-interest."

"The fervor of his faith," Eisenhower said, "was so contagious

Mines Face Closing

Increases Granted Lewis Might Bring End of Some Operations

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—For the second straight year John L. Lewis has come up with a wage boost for miners without a strike—but at a price that industry leaders say may force many mines out of business.

Southern coal producers came to terms with the United Mine Workers chief late yesterday, thereby avoiding a threatened walkout today of their 100,000 miners.

The Dixie group agreed to the same terms Lewis had previously negotiated with the rest of the industry—a $1.90 daily pay increase, plus a 10-cents a ton hike in the operator-paid royalty for the union's welfare fund. The daily wage now becomes $18.25 and the royalty 40 cents a ton.

First Inning Yankees

Mantle, swinging at 3-2 pitch, popped to Reese at edge of outfield grass.

First Inning Dodgers

Reese struck out.

Mantle took Snider's high fly behind second base.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Yankees

Berra's sharp grounder skidded off Hodge's glove but Robinson retrieved the ball and tossed to Black for the out. Hodges gets an assist.

Collins sent a high fly to Furillo in short right.

Noren raised a high pop to Reese.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Can't See How Agencies Can Be Cleared of Communists Easily as Republicans Say

Ike Keeps Striking

Stevenson Likes Smith's Second Statement on Intelligence Agency

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bore down on the Communists-in-government issues today with a stand that the GOP is making a "ludicrous" claim it could easily end Red penetration of federal agencies.

The Democratic presidential nominee and his staff intensified, too, efforts to win over independent and other voters through a nationwide organization of volunteers for Stevenson. Some 200 leaders of volunteer units from 37 states assembled here today for a major political rally.

Stevenson could find time only for a brief reception for them tonight at the gubernatorial mansion.

The Illinois governor was busy, among other things, on a speech for next week to be built almost entirely on the explosive Communist issue.

At the same time, he took steps to head off any exploitation by his Republican rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's statement that Smith believes, or at least operates on the assumption, there are Communists even in the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which Smith heads.

GOP Take Advantage

Republicans seized on Smith's original statement, that he believes all intelligence agencies including the CIA have been infiltrated, in support of their contention the present administration has been lax in going after Reds in government. The head of the CIA made his statement in a legal proceeding in Washington.

Eisenhower at first was reported to be injecting the question of Communist penetration of intelligence agency into a speech for a midwestern campaign tour starting today.

But later a spokesman on the general's campaign train said Eisenhower would do nothing to endanger the security of this country or the CIA, although he intends to keep on hitting subversives in government.

And a spokesman for the Republican National Committee said in Washington that neither the committee or Eisenhower intends to make a "political football" of the Smith statements. Stevenson had warned against any effort in that direction.

Smith Backs Down

Smith backed down a bit from his original statement. He got out another to the effect that what he really meant to say was that any intelligence agency must be on constant guard and would be "criminally negligent" if it did not operate on the assumption that Reds have been able to make a penetration.

Gen. Smith told reporters the CIA never should become involved in a political campaign and that he had sent his second statement to President Truman and to candidates Eisenhower and Stevenson.

Stevenson seized last night on Smith's statement Number 2, and

Thousands Are Sent To Nixons, Returned

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Contributions totalling thousands of dollars have been made to the Nixon family—but not accepted—since the Republican vice presidential nominee gave an account of his personal finances a week ago.

Members of Sen. Richard Nixon's campaign staff acknowledged today the receipt of many letters enclosing donations ranging from $1 to $100 in cash and checks, with the senders making it clear "this is for the Nixons."

The money is being returned as it is received and no accurate total has been kept. Staff members said it amounts to "several thousand dollars."

Aboard Truman Train, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman, dedicating the $108,000,000 Hungry Horse Dam, today accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of turning against such projects after learning "the Republican party line."

Truman said the Republican presidential nominee is talking "like one of the lobbyists for the private power monopolies" and if he is elected, "it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind."

It was another speech in the President's coolly-calculated attempt to destroy Eisenhower's prestige in a "give 'em hell" campaign tour from coast to coast.

Truman is working the role of the Democratic party's "hatchet man" as the Republicans labeled him—with the calm and relentless assurance of a veteran campaigner going about familiar work.

Leaving his campaign train at Columbia Falls, Mont., he viewed the dam and drove on to Kalispell for a dedicatory speech in the high school gymnasium.

Tells Them to Look

"All of you who are here today had better go over and take another look at this dam, because if the Republicans win this election, it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind," Truman said.

"The Republican candidate for president made it perfectly plain in a speech in Boise, Ida., a few weeks ago that he was against dams like this," the President added.

And he said Eisenhower now accepts the "old guard view that dams like Hungry Horse, and government transmission lines, and low cost public power" are part of the "creeping socialism" of which—as Truman said it—the slogan writers for the power monopolies talk.

Eisenhower, Truman said, has "adopted the line of the private power monopoly."

Hungry Horse, the world's fourth largest, third highest concrete dam, towers 564 feet above the bed of the south fork of the Flat Head river. It has a power plant capacity of 285,000 kilowatts.

The water is rising slowly behind the huge barrier, which will impound 3,500,000 acre feet of water in a lake 3 miles long, three and a half miles wide and 500 feet at its deepest point.

Says It's Part of System

Truman said Eisenhower had accepted the view such projects

McGrath Is Cited in Report As Not Desiring Any Probe

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—House investigators said today that former Atty.-Gen. J. Howard McGrath showed "no enthusiasm" for a Justice Department clean-up—rather, he "appeared to wish to delay and frustrate investigation."

From their findings, investigators said, it appears clear that the Justice Department under McGrath wanted to prevent an examination of its files for reasons which "cannot but arouse suspicion."

McGrath, fired last April 3 by President Truman after the administration clean-up drive bogged down, was raked over for a second time in Part 2 of a report by a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

Chapter One of the report, issued last Monday, criticized McGrath's appointment of Newbold Morris, New York lawyer, to head the clean-up campaign and questioned McGrath's good faith in making the appointment.

In reply, McGrath commented simply that "the report is beneath the dignity of men who care to be honest and honorable."

Advised of today's second installment, the former attorney general told a reporter he had no intention of "engaging in a cross fire of discussion on each of the committee's interim reports."

In today's installment — the third is due next week — the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chelf (D.-Ky.), pictures McGrath as an official who exhibited "a deplorable lack of knowledge of the department he was supposed to administer." It adds:

"His testimony and his record as attorney general indicate that he was content to let the status quo remain without knowing what the status quo was."

In particular, investigators said of McGrath:

1. He made "inappropriate appointments to high office."

2. He had little interest in purging the Justice Department of "wrongdoers and incompetents."

3. He failed "completely" to cooperate with chief committee investigators, and "surrounded himself with subordinates of the same view."

Investigators added, however, that "in fairness to Mr. McGrath" it should be noted the majority of his subordinates were originally placed in top positions by Tom Clark, McGrath's predecessor who now is a supreme court justice.

The report devoted considerable space to the committee's difficulties in obtaining information from the Justice Department prior to the appointment of James P. McGranery as attorney general.

Ike and Byrnes Meet

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, left, and Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, right, and Mrs. Byrnes meet again as the Republican presidential nominee arrived in Columbia, S. C., for campaign speech. Byrnes, a life-long Democrat, said recently he would support Eisenhower. (AP Wirephoto).

Air Force Says 30 Planes Lost by Allies; Bagged 62

Liberal Party Has 55 Seats in Parliament; Reds Fail to Get One

Tokyo, Oct. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida got solid backing as 29 of his supporters, including three cabinet ministers, won Diet (Parliament) seats today in Japan's first completely free election since World War 2.

Yoshida's Liberal party captured 55 of 80 seats decided in early returns. Of the Liberal party victors, 16 support Ichiro Hatoyama, former leader of the party who is waging a hot battle to regain control.

The Communists have failed to win a seat. Left wing Socialists have taken six. Others were scattered.

In his own district, Yoshida seemed certain of keeping his seat.

May Win 466 Seats

Yoshida's dominant Liberal party was expected to win the greatest number of the 466 Parliament seats sought by 1,243 candidates.

His main fight was within his own party. His leadership has been challenged by Ichiro Hatoyama, founder of the Liberals and head of the party until he was purged from political life by the allied occupation.

Hatoyama turned over the party reigns to Yoshida in 1946 and the latter guided Japan's government through the occupation.

Hatoyama is not anti-American. His differences with Yoshida are over financial policy. Yoshida wants a stable budget. Hatoyama is willing for Japan to have an unbalanced budget if it will get big industry rolling again.

Her First Vote at 93

Martinsburg, W. V., Oct. 1—Mrs. Dollie Lamon Teillard, whose father was Abraham Lincoln's law partner, will vote for the first time in November, and for the Republican presidential candidate too. Although 93-year-old Mrs. Teillard practically grew up in the lap of politics, she was living in France when women won the right to vote in 1920. And after returning to this country about 12 years ago, she lived in Washington, D. C., where residents do not have the right to vote. She moved here more than a year ago—long enough to qualify for this year's election. She says she plans to vote for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Swedes Sell Planes

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Swedish Air Force is selling 57 Mustang fighter planes—25 to Israel and 32 to the Dominican Republic. The Swedes said they don't need the planes—which they've used for about six years—because they're switching to jets.

Seven Jets Are Among Those Downed—Big Raid Is Made at Namsan

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today reported 30 allied planes were lost to all causes in September. But it said only seven of its jet fighters were shot down in the furious air battles which cost the Communists a record 62 MIG-15s destroyed. The previous one month record for MIGs downed was 44, set last April.

The announcement came soon after the allies opened another month of air blows with a massive B-29 attack against a sprawling chemical plant only 40 yards from the Manchurian border. An armada of 48 Superforts dropped about 425 tons of high explosives on the Namsan plant in one of the biggest B-29 raids of the year.

Seven Jets Lost

The air force said four F-86 Sabre jets and three F-84 Thunderjets were lost in air battles; five allied planes lost to Communist ground fire and 18 other warplanes lost to "other causes," which were not reported.

Blood Bank Gets Record Demands

An unprecedented call for blood was received by the City of Kingston Blood Bank on Monday and Tuesday of this week. A total of 54 pints of blood and five pints of plasma were delivered in a short period of time to break all previous records of the bank.

On Tuesday night an acute surgical emergency developed at one of the local hospitals and the blood bank supplied 17 pints of blood and four pints of plasma to a single patient in a period of five hours.

In addition to locally available blood an additional pint of a rare type was procured from Poughkeepsie through the assistance of the State Police of the Highland barracks who were able to deliver the blood to the patient in a phenomenally short period of time. The call was sent to the Highland barracks at 11:05 p. m. and the troopers went to Poughkeepsie, secured the necessary blood and arrived at the hospital here at 11:30 p. m. The trooper who carried the blood apologized to the hospital officials for the "delay" stating that fog along the route had hampered the delivery.

At the blood bank it was stated that the adequacy of the blood bank to meet any emergency in the county is a tribute to the cooperation and generosity of the people of Ulster county. Presently there is a serious need for replenishment of the supply.

Accuses Administration
By DON WHITEHEAD

Aboard the Eisenhower Special Oct. 1 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower accused the administration today of crushing a bipartisan approach to foreign policy by trying to take all the credit for the good things and blaming Republicans for the bad.

He promised that if elected President he would cooperate with Democrats and make them "real partners" in working out basic foreign policies.

Eisenhower gave this declaration in a speech prepared for delivery at Flint, Mich., as he carried his time-for-a-change campaign westward on a 28-state drive that could make or break his presidential hopes.

Optimism was running high on this push through Michigan into states that will have 361 electoral votes out of the 531 total — or more than enough to swing the election in his favor if he can carry them.

Praises Vandenberg

The GOP presidential nominee chose Flint as the point to give high praise to the late Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Sr., of Michigan, who was a strong exponent of a bipartisan foreign policy.

He said Vandenberg saw that no nation, no matter how strong, could win security by its own efforts alone—and that collective security meant "enlightened self-interest."

"The fervor of his faith," Eisenhower said, "was so contagious

Increases Granted Lewis Might Bring End of Some Operations

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—For the second straight year John L. Lewis has come up with a wage boost for miners without a strike—but at a price that industry leaders say may force many mines out of business.

Southern coal producers came to terms with the United Mine Workers chief late yesterday, thereby avoiding a threatened walkout today of their 100,000 miners.

The Dixie group agreed to the same terms Lewis had previously negotiated with the rest of the industry—a $1.90 daily pay increase, plus a 10-cents a ton hike in the operator-paid royalty for the union's welfare fund. The daily wage now becomes $18.25 and the royalty 40 cents a ton.

Eleanor Was Around

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Eleanor Holm Rose says she is not running away from a court order obtained by her estranged husband, Billy Rose—but that his private detectives were just looking for her in the wrong places. Rose, dapper Broadway showman, obtained the order in State Supreme Court yesterday. It requires the former swimming star to show cause tomorrow why she should not appear and be examined as to any knowledge she might have concerning art objects Rose says are missing from their Beekman Place home. Detectives employed by Rose, said a statement issued by him last night, looked in vain for Mrs. Rose in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Nassau and Westchester counties. Rose broke into the Beekman house last Saturday, and then said the art objects were missing. He said he had to break in because Mrs. Rose barred him from the house a year ago and had the locks changed.

Woodstock, Sept. 30—Parents of new young students at the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School will have an opportunity to inspect the school at the monthly meeting Thursday, Oct. 9, at 8:15 p. m.

The teacher, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, will discuss with parents the aims and activities of the school during the informal evening at the school. Refreshments will be served.

Children who entered the school this week are Andre Mele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mele; Roger Phelps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phelps; and Sven Donaldson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Donaldson.

The nursery school is operated entirely by the parents. Many of the mothers help the teacher one morning every other week. The fathers help by building outdoor equipment and repairing toys.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Sept. 30—Mrs. Erwin Ruff and her two children will leave Tuesday night for Bridgeman, Mich. to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Alt, for a week.

A surprise birthday party for Mrs. Karl Cousins and Mrs. Mollie Higgins Smith was given Saturday night at the Cousins home. Guests were all relatives of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Cousins and were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hoyt, of Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cousins of Glasco Turnpike, and Karl Cousins, and their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith are the parents of a daughter, born September 19 at Kingston Hospital. The baby weighed six pounds five ounces and is named Kathy Louise.

Mrs. Louise Roome arrived at her home on Glasco Turnpike Monday from New York.

Mrs. Herbert Waterous entertained at a party Saturday night for several guests.

Sheran Ann Graver is up and about again after a recent illness. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Graver.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kroll leave Tuesday for their home in New York where they will spend the winter. Mr. Kroll will give a concert at Town Hall, New York, in November.

Miss Elsa Kimball entertained at a party Sunday night for 20 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Perkins, Jr., and Mrs. Jane Perkins are leaving for St. Augustine, Fla., Tuesday. Mrs. Jane Perkins will remain in Florida and Mr. and Mrs. Perkins will return to this village in two weeks.

Miss Nancy Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley G. Summers, left Sunday for Springfield, Mass., where she will be in charge of the art department of the Springfield Library.

Cornelius V. V. Sewell has announced that the property formerly owned by the late Raymond Cardone next to the Woodstock School, has been purchased by Alfred Ingriselli, of Newark, N. J.

Bernard Dyer spent last weekend at his new home in Bearsville.

Mrs. Nathan Adler spent the weekend at her home in Lewis Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kramer were the guests of Nathan Schwartz over the weekend.

GARDINER

Gardiner, Oct. 1—Miss Elizabeth Deyo spent last week with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brodhead of Kingston.

Eleanor Was Around

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Eleanor Holm Rose says she is not running away from a court order obtained by her estranged husband, Billy Rose—but that his private detectives were just looking for her in the wrong places. Rose, dapper Broadway showman, obtained the order in State Supreme Court yesterday. It requires the former swimming star to show cause tomorrow why she should not appear and be examined as to any knowledge she might have concerning art objects Rose says are missing from their Beekman Place home. Detectives employed by Rose, said a statement issued by him last night, looked in vain for Mrs. Rose in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Nassau and Westchester counties. Rose broke into the Beekman house last Saturday, and then said the art objects were missing. He said he had to break in because Mrs. Rose barred him from the house a year ago and had the locks changed.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 1, 1952

ELKS AND A FREE PRESS

Kingston Lodge of Elks will observe National Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8, to honor the press, which fosters free speech as guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States.

Throughout the country 1,600 Elks Lodges will observe the occasion under the direction of Grand Exalted Ruler Sam Stern of Fargo, North Dakota, who states that "National Newspaper Week should help awaken us to be on our guard against any attempt to muzzle the press from any quarter."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Kingston and throughout the entire United States are to be congratulated on their enlightened movement to acquaint their large membership with the fact that more and more frequently efforts are being made to curtail the press' freedom to search out the truth and report it to the people. Such efforts are a direct attack upon our right to know by people who don't want us to know.

Exalted Ruler Francis J. McCardle of Kingston Lodge has made a commentary that is near to most editors' hearts when he said "As Elks, we appreciate the fact that the Constitution guarantees a free press not as a privilege for the newspapers but as a protection for our liberties."

To many minds, "Freedom of the Press" means freedom only for the publisher to print what he feels like. And nothing else. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The press of this nation recognizes that it has two duties. First, to get and to print the news accurately and impartially. Second to interpret that news fairly and honestly. And woe to that newspaper which thinks it can slant the news. There are too many sources of information to the public for any newspaper to attempt to slant news and survive.

Again and again, the newspapers of this nation have been impressing on the people that their (the public's) press is the last defense of common decency, common honesty and common sense. It is the bulwark and cornerstone of their other rights—freedom to assemble, freedom to worship, etc. Once the people have lost their free press, as witness countries under communistic domination, their other freedoms automatically will vanish.

There are few, an amazing small few, persons in this country who do not read a newspaper. That circumstance alone makes the press a source of information of the greatest magnitude.

As long as the American people preserve and demand their free press, they too will remain free.

OUR YOUNG LEADERS

Many young people who are not of voting age will play an important part in this year's elections. Boy Scouts throughout Ulster County are taking part in the drive to make people conscious of their duty and obligation to vote.

The participation of young people in such activities serves a twofold purpose. Adults who see the interest taken by the youngsters may be inspired to go out and vote. The youngsters themselves learn valuable lessons in citizenship and when they are of age to vote themselves they will be better qualified to do so because they began early to assume civic responsibility.

Food shows in our big cities always attract large crowds anxious to see the latest for the kitchen and to nibble at assorted free samples. At one held in England recently ration-starved Britishers found the nibbling to be the big attraction. Truly, here is food for thought.

Pravda has chided smaller Russian newspapers for printing too much local news and advises that they carry more poems and sketches. If the papers follow Pravda's advice the situation might go from bad to verse.

Some of the people who talk most about the political situation fail to vote. Democracy is more than a topic of conservation.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

TO RECAPITULATE

Since 1933, when the United States recognized Soviet Russia, the infiltration into our government by Communist agents and emissaries has been a major political issue. There is no hindsight about this: a voluminous, factual attack has been constant since 1917 when the Bolsheviks took over Russia.

The year following recognition, the Harold Ware cell (1934) was organized in Washington, consisting of bright young men, mostly from the Harvard Law School, whose object it was to gain important positions affecting government policy on behalf of Soviet Russia and international Communism. They found it easy to enter the AAA in the Department of Agriculture, then presided over by Henry Wallace. (I must say, in justice, that when Wallace discovered the nature of this cabal, he booted the gang out of his department.)

Subsequently, this Harold Ware group found its way from the AAA into other government activities, to the National Labor Relations Board, the Treasury, the State Department, etc. Lee Pressman, for instance, wrote the Wagner Act, which established the National Labor Relations Board of which Nathan Witt became secretary and practically the head man. Witt's associate in Communist activity, Lee Pressman, became counsel for the newly formed C.I.O. Pressman and Witt worked together, so that a government agency dealing with labor matters and a national labor union favored by that agency were joined together through the cooperation of two Communists.

The La Follette Committee was loaded with members of the Harold Ware cell who served as investigators, researchers and counsel. This committee so slanted an investigation as to provide the Communists with the data they required for their propaganda against American capitalism.

Other members of this group, because of their abilities, such as Alger Hiss, Henry Collins, Charles Kramer, Harry Dexter White, came to the fore and were perforce exposed.

The Administration cannot claim that it was without data on the subject. It has always had the reports of the FBI, an agency that from the first recognized the Communist menace. Neither President Roosevelt nor President Truman availed himself fully of FBI facilities on this subject. To this must be added the intelligence reports of Army, Navy and State Departments prior to the Marshall-Acheson regime. Finally, there were many books, magazine and newspaper articles, some written by Communists, others by anti-Communists since 1848.

In 1939, Whittaker Chambers exposed actual espionage to Adolf Berle, who informed Dean Acheson and President Roosevelt of the accusation that Alger Hiss, already a high State Department official, was a Russian spy. Hiss was promoted to higher office subsequent to the accusation and was Roosevelt's Far Eastern expert at Yalta.

On October 28, 1946, Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada came to Washington with the data uncovered at the Canadian Spy Ring investigation. King gave to President Truman data on the American side of the espionage. Nothing happened.

Meanwhile, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, organized in 1938, was month after month providing items which when taken together have produced the pattern of Communist infiltration into the lives of our people.

The "Amerasia" case, involving a vast amount of classified secret documents (over 1700), taken from the files of military intelligence, naval intelligence, Bureau of Censorship, British intelligence, the OSS and the State Departmnt, was one of the most brazen acts of espionage yet developed. On March 11, 1945, the "Amerasia" headquarters were searched and the documents found. Involved were Philip Jaffe, Kate Mitchell, Mary Gayn, John S. Service, Lieut. Andrew Roth and Emmanuel S. Larson.

After Alger Hiss was convicted, it was impossible to disregard the "Amerasia" case. A Senatorial committee, headed by Senator Millard Tydings, was appointed to investigate, in particular, charges made by Senator Joe McCarthy on Communist infiltration into the State Department. At first, Senator Tydings seemed to be anxious to do a thorough job. However, political exigencies drove him to the whitewash pail. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said of the Tydings Committee, of which he was a member:

"The investigation must be set down as superficial and inconclusive. The proceedings often lacked impartiality; the atmosphere was too often not that of seeking to ascertain the truth. The subcommittee's record is a tangle of loose threads, of witnesses who were not subpoenaed, of leads which were not followed up."

Much more can be written in recapitulation, but there is no space here, except to say that under both President Roosevelt and President Truman, Communists flourished in our government.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

METHODS OF ARTIFICIAI RESPIRATION

In my early school days we were taught a method of resuscitation of the near dead known as the Sylvester method. In this method, the patient is placed on his back. The operator kneels at the head and grasps arms just above wrists. He lifts arms upward and then draws them back to the ground above victim's head. Arms are then replaced on chest with forearms crossed and pressure downward is applied.

The Shaffer method has been in use for a great many years and is still used in the majority of cases. The patient lies on his abdomen; the operator kneels astride the victim's legs; he then leans forward applying gradual pressure downward with his hand on floating ribs forcing the abdominal organs out of the way so that the diaphragm (floor of chest) will thus give more room for chest to draw in air as the operator releases the pressure. Pressure and release occur about 14 times to the minute.

Another method much in use in Europe, is the Eve method, in which the patient is placed on his back on a board and board on a fulcrum and a teeter-totter given the patient. The down movement sends organs against the chest and drives out air. Then the up movement allows air to flow into the lungs. This method, while simple, requires a board and fulcrum which may not be available.

The patient is placed in prone position (on his abdomen) with his hands resting upon each other and the face turned to the side and placed on the hands. The operator kneels on one or both knees near the victim's head; he places one knee near top of victim's head in order to keep the hands from slipping out from under the face. Grasping the arms just above the elbows, he rocks backward and lifts them upward and toward himself until firm resistance is met. The arms are then replaced on the ground and the operator rocks forward, placing his hands on the mid-back (over the lower portion of the shoulder blades) with the fingers spread and the thumbs just touching at the spine. He then exerts pressure straight downwards; the cycle is repeated 10 to 12 times per minute. This arm-lift causes active inspiration of air by stretching the front chest muscles relieving weight from breast bone and over-extending the spine. The back pressure pushed air out of lungs and the arm lift draws air into lungs.

While the Shaffer method is still the most popular, the arm-lift back pressure method has much to recommend it.

You Can Easily Tell It's an Election Year

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — General Eisenhower's income taxes, when and if published, will contain some small and interesting enterprises that the public doesn't know about. There's nothing wrong about them, but the public doesn't ordinarily think of a five-star general investing in a lipstick company or a restaurant.

However, Eisenhower has a stock interest in the "Charm-More" Company which puts out lipsticks. He was one of the original investors when the company was first organized.

He also owns part of a Howard Johnson restaurant in Washington, D.C. George Allen, the former White House jester got Ike into this deal, along with another famous Democrat, Ed Pauley, the big California oil man. The restaurant is located in downtown Washington.

Ike also has his farm in Gettysburg, which he bought through George Allen.

Only embarrassing thing in Ike's income tax returns in addition to the generous capital gains tax which the treasury let him pay on the $1,000,000 received on his book, is an exemption on his house while president of Columbia.

In 1948 the general wrote the treasury asking that his house, plus 12 servants and upkeep not be considered as income since he was required by the university to live there. The treasury ruled in his favor, gave him tax exemption on his Columbia expenses.

In contrast, the treasury has balked at letting waiters, waitresses, bellhops, chambermaids, who also may have to live in hotels, deduct their meals and lodging. These must be treated as taxable income, except under certain circumstances.

For instance, waiters in restaurants do not have to treat as income a noon-day luncheon served while they are on duty; but cannot deduct dinner at the end of the day if served to them when their work is over.

Nurses who have to live in hospitals were finally given more favorable treatment than waiters, though only after a long treasury wrangle; whereas Eisenhower got his ruling without any trouble.

The man who gave him the rulings on both the book, which saved him about $500,000, and the house at Columbia was Charles Oliphant, who resigned after bitter criticism by Republican congressmen.

Note—At Columbia, Eisenhower received his regular army pay of $15,751, plus three aides or stenographers, plus a car, in addition to Columbia University remuneration.

Harvard Advisers

The Eisenhower train is far better organized than Governor Stevenson's entourage. Little is left to chance around Eisenhower, especially the advance men who precede the train with banners, signs and even balloons.

In contrast, the Stevenson party hasn't even always arranged for hotel reservations.

The fact that most of the advisers around the Democratic candidate are Harvard graduates caused Mike Reilly, former White House Secret Service man now guarding Stevenson, to remark:

"Harvard is going to have to start a new course—'how to select a presidential candidate.'"

Murder in Maryland

There was some frantic backstage manipulating aboard the Eisenhower train as it rolled into Maryland. The general had been tipped off that Edward Grammer, on trail for murdering his wife, then putting her in a runaway automobile, would try to subpoena Eisenhower as a character witness.

This started some urgent telegrams to Maryland authorities beginning at 3 a. m. Finally, Maryland's secretary of state dug up an old law which held that a man need not testify as a character witness if he signed an affidavit that he didn't know the defendant. Eisenhower promptly signed such an affidavit and quit worrying about process-servers.

Sneak-Attack

Friends of Senator Kem of Missouri are planning a last-minute sneak attack on Stuart Symington, now running against Kem for the Senate. They will charge that Symington was once convicted for stealing an automobile in Baltimore.

Of course, politics can be pretty dirty. But the real facts are that Symington, when seventeen years old, went for a ride with two other boys in a car belonging to their next-door neighbor. That was in the days when there weren't so many automobiles. Unfortunately the boy who was driving ran the car into a ditch, the neighbors naturally got sore and the three boys were fined $25 each.

However, the neighbor, Harry Dorsey Watts, learning that the incident might be used against Symington in the Senate race, wrote him a letter:

"Your father," he wrote, "one of my closest friends, immediately got together with the parents of the other boys and paid me in full for the damage. The incident was only a prank, and it's absurd that it could be considered anything else 34 years later."

Note—One man who really tried to clean up Washington is Symington—regardless of any joy-riding in his youth.

Veep Nominee Has Set Record, Has Become Widely Known in Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 1—This campaign has already set a record in one respect—it's the first time a Vice-Presidential nominee has become widely known. Judging by the mail and telegrams received by the Republican National Committee, more persons know Sen. Richard M. Nixon than ever before knew a Vice-Presidential nominee.

As for the big crowds which are assembling to hear Sen. Nixon everywhere, he probably holds the record for attendance at meetings addressed by any Vice-Presidential nominee in recent years.

Sen. Nixon has been here a few days and naturally the reporters have been asking him for further details which here and there some critics are saying were omitted from his nation-wide television and radio speech or were not fully understood. The Senator has decided not to discuss the matter for quotation any further, because he feels it has resolved itself now into a smokescreen designed to divert attention from the main issues of the campaign.

This correspondent has obtained the following information bearing on various questions asked since the historic telecast:

1. How did the Senator accumulate the $20,000 for the down payment on his house? The answer is this: by a careful reading of the speech it will be found that the Senator and his wife had $10,000 saved before he was elected to Congress. His speech revealed that he and his wife inherited $4,500. He also stated that he averaged $1,500 a year from speaking or about $7,500 in five years. This totals more than the $20,000 needed for the down payment. Incidentally, a number of Senators own homes of comparable worth in the same neighborhood.

2. Why did an article in "The Saturday Evening Post" quote Mrs. Nixon last summer as saying, "We were broke and didn't have enough money for postage stamps"? This refers to the first Nixon campaign for Congress, which indeed was without adequate funds.

3. Why didn't the Senator give out his income-tax returns? The answer is that the Treasury Department has them on file now and, if there were the slighest discrepency between the statement in his speech as to the only sources of income and anything reported in his income tax, that fact could surely become known to the Administration. To put it another way, nobody thinks any one like Senator Nixon would ever venture to make a public statement of his sources of income and fail to include any that had been reported on his income-tax return. So the Senator is said to have felt any disclosure of the text of his income-tax return would be superfluous.

4. Why did Senator Nixon say in his speech: "Every penny of it (the fund) was used to pay for political expenses and I did not think should be charged to the taxpayers of the United States?" The answer is this: the main items for which the certified public accounting firm revealed the $18,000 fund had been spent could have been paid for by money received in various ways, such as putting one's wife on the Senate office pay roll for $8,000, using the "frank" or free postage system to take care of about $4,200 in Christmas greetings to 20,000 constituents, and $1,200 for postage, which brings the items to a total of $13,400. The remainder, which consisted of $2,367 for radio recordings, $2,069 for stationery, and $920 for extra office staff, makes a total of more than $18,000, and these items could have been paid for out of the funds of the chairman of a committee or subcommittee of the Senate if Mr. Nixon had chosen to work himself into such a post. For the committee and subcommiteee chairmen in Congress have considerable funds to use for radio recordings and speeches and for travel and extra office help. Items like these are often paid for out of taxpayers' money. Thus, a Christmas-greeting letter could start out by stating that the Senator in the new year ahead was at the service of his constituents for any information needed from government departments and outlining further any data that might be given the taxpayer but winding up with a special Christmas and New Year greeting. Such a letter can ride postage free and many of them are sent out annually by members of Congress to their constituents.

The sponsors of the Nixon fund were told in a letter from Dana Smith dated Sept. 25, 1951, about every important item for which the money solicited would be used, including the cost of sending Christmas cards "to the people who worked in his (the Senator's) campaign or contributed financially to it. Much to our surprise we find that this group numbers 20,000."

In that same letter, Mr. Smith explicitly informed every prospective contributor: "The reason for the maximum ($500) was so that it can never be charged that any one is contributing so much as to think he is entitled to special favors."

From beginning to end, the fund was handled on a business-like basis with a plain warning that no obligation was being incurred by the Senator. Every penny was accounted for and used for expenses connected with public service and not for personal enrichment of the California Senator himself.

Gov. Stevenson used funds left over from the campaign to pay travel expenses in making certain speeches. He also supplemented salaries of state officials so that his own administration would be successful and its prestige enhanced through the service rendered to the people of Illinois.

Though persistent efforts are being made by critics of both the Governor and the Senator to keep the issue alive, it does look as if all the essential facts have now been made available in both cases.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

William Zeckendorf, a rich and prominent New York real estate dealer and a "liberal" in his politics, is a grandson of a pioneer citizen of Tucson, of the same name, who showed initiative and courage in a crisis there in 1873 which resembled the current reign of terror in New York.

On a sultry August evening Vicente Hernandez and his wife, Librada, who ran a general store and pawnshop, bedded down near the front door of their store which they left open, hoping to get the benefit of a little draft. The next morning, an early customer found the doors to both the store and sleeping quarters closed and locked and, when he could not raise an answer by pounding and shouting, called Constable Frank Esparza and the sheriff.

They broke into the sleeping quarters. Mr. and Mrs. Hernandez had been bludgeoned and slashed to death. The furniture had been tumbled about and there was other evidence that the victims had resisted as long as they could.

In a reminiscent story published in the Tucson Citizen in 1940, Roscoe G. Willson wrote:

"In the adjoining room, bloody footprints and hand and fingerprints were everywhere, particularly at the case of jewelry and the cash receptacle. Neighbors verified the absence of considerable jewelry, several firearms and a valuable, silver-mounted saddle and its accoutrements, establishing the fact that robbery was the motive.

"Excitement ran high and the leading citizens, both American and Mexican, joined in expressing their horror and their determination to bring the assassins to quick justice. Not only were the Hernandez' a popular young couple, well liked by all classes, but their killing was the culmination of a series of bloody atrocities that the law-abiding citizens felt must be brought to an end. There was a feeling that the courts had been too lenient in dealings with murders and other violent outlawry.

"A citizens' committee for investigation and action was formed at once, with the well-known merchant, William Zeckendorf, at its head, to run down the murderers and deal with them by direct action rather than through the courts. It was not exactly a vigilante organization such as was known in the California gold days or the Montana Alder Gulch diggings where the vigilantes were secretly organized, had their elected officers who were unknown to the general public, their secret passwords and warning sign to outlaws, such as Alder Gulch's 3-7-77.

"Toward evening the following day, a Mexican woman appeared at one of the stores, made a few purchases and, in payment offered a bill showing blood stains."

Incidentally, this bill may have been one of Mr. Zeckendorf's own private issue which was legal tender in Arizona territory, in parts of Sonora, Mexico, and in California. Gold, hides, hay and beans were the standard media but they were clumsy and the currency of Zeckendorf brothers, Louis, Aaron and William, reading "L. Zeckendorf & Co. promise to pay bearer in merchandise, on demand," five, ten or a hundred dol-

ELKS AND A FREE PRESS

Kingston Lodge of Elks will observe National Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8, to honor the press, which fosters free speech as guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States.

Throughout the country 1,600 Elks Lodges will observe the occasion under the direction of Grand Exalted Ruler Sam Stern of Fargo, North Dakota, who states that "National Newspaper Week should help awaken us to be on our guard against any attempt to muzzle the press from any quarter."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Kingston and throughout the entire United States are to be congratulated on their enlightened movement to acquaint their large membership with the fact that more and more frequently efforts are being made to curtail the press' freedom to search out the truth and report it to the people. Such efforts are a direct attack upon our right to know by people who don't want us to know.

Exalted Ruler Francis J. McCardle of Kingston Lodge has made a commentary that is near to most editors' hearts when he said "As Elks, we appreciate the fact that the Constitution guarantees a free press not as a privilege for the newspapers but as a protection for our liberties."

To many minds, "Freedom of the Press" means freedom only for the publisher to print what he feels like. And nothing else. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The press of this nation recognizes that it has two duties. First, to get and to print the news accurately and impartially. Second to interpret that news fairly and honestly. And woe to that newspaper which thinks it can slant the news. There are too many sources of information to the public for any newspaper to attempt to slant news and survive.

Again and again, the newspapers of this nation have been impressing on the people that their (the public's) press is the last defense of common decency, common honesty and common sense. It is the bulwark and cornerstone of their other rights—freedom to assemble, freedom to worship, etc. Once the people have lost their free press, as witness countries under communistic domination, their other freedoms automatically will vanish.

There are few, an amazing small few, persons in this country who do not read a newspaper. That circumstance alone makes the press a source of information of the greatest magnitude.

As long as the American people preserve and demand their free press, they too will remain free.

OUR YOUNG LEADERS

Many young people who are not of voting age will play an important part in this year's elections. Boy Scouts throughout Ulster County are taking part in the drive to make people conscious of their duty and obligation to vote.

The participation of young people in such activities serves a twofold purpose. Adults who see the interest taken by the youngsters may be inspired to go out and vote. The youngsters themselves learn valuable lessons in citizenship and when they are of age to vote themselves they will be better qualified to do so because they began early to assume civic responsibility.

Food shows in our big cities always attract large crowds anxious to see the latest for the kitchen and to nibble at assorted free samples. At one held in England recently ration-starved Britishers found the nibbling to be the big attraction. Truly, here is food for thought.

Pravda has chided smaller Russian newspapers for printing too much local news and advises that they carry more poems and sketches. If the papers follow Pravda's advice the situation might go from bad to verse.

Some of the people who talk most about the political situation fail to vote. Democracy is more than a topic of conservation.

'These Days'

TO RECAPITULATE

Since 1933, when the United States recognized Soviet Russia, the infiltration into our government by Communist agents and emissaries has been a major political issue. There is no hindsight about this: a voluminous, factual attack has been constant since 1917 when the Bolsheviks took over Russia.

The year following recognition, the Harold Ware cell (1934) was organized in Washington, consisting of bright young men, mostly from the Harvard Law School, whose object it was to gain important positions affecting government policy on behalf of Soviet Russia and international Communism. They found it easy to enter the AAA in the Department of Agriculture, then presided over by Henry Wallace. (I must say, in justice, that when Wallace discovered the nature of this cabal, he booted the gang out of his department.)

Subsequently, this Harold Ware group found its way from the AAA into other government activities, to the National Labor Relations Board, the Treasury, the State Department, etc. Lee Pressman, for instance, wrote the Wagner Act, which established the National Labor Relations Board of which Nathan Witt became secretary and practically the head man. Witt's associate in Communist activity, Lee Pressman, became counsel for the newly formed C.I.O. Pressman and Witt worked together, so that a government agency dealing with labor matters and a national labor union favored by that agency were joined together through the cooperation of two Communists.

The La Follette Committee was loaded with members of the Harold Ware cell who served as investigators, researchers and counsel. This committee so slanted an investigation as to provide the Communists with the data they required for their propaganda against American capitalism.

Other members of this group, because of their abilities, such as Alger Hiss, Henry Collins, Charles Kramer, Harry Dexter White, came to the fore and were perforce exposed.

The Administration cannot claim that it was without data on the subject. It has always had the reports of the FBI, an agency that from the first recognized the Communist menace. Neither President Roosevelt nor President Truman availed himself fully of FBI facilities on this subject. To this must be added the intelligence reports of Army, Navy and State Departments prior to the Marshall-Acheson regime. Finally, there were many books, magazine and newspaper articles, some written by Communists, others by anti-Communists since 1848.

In 1939, Whittaker Chambers exposed actual espionage to Adolf Berle, who informed Dean Acheson and President Roosevelt of the accusation that Alger Hiss, already a high State Department official, was a Russian spy. Hiss was promoted to higher office subsequent to the accusation and was Roosevelt's Far Eastern expert at Yalta.

On October 28, 1946, Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada came to Washington with the data uncovered at the Canadian Spy Ring investigation. King gave to President Truman data on the American side of the espionage. Nothing happened.

Meanwhile, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, organized in 1938, was month after month providing items which when taken together have produced the pattern of Communist infiltration into the lives of our people.

The "Amerasia" case, involving a vast amount of classified secret documents (over 1700), taken from the files of military intelligence, naval intelligence, Bureau of Censorship, British intelligence, the OSS and the State Departmnt, was one of the most brazen acts of espionage yet developed. On March 11, 1945, the "Amerasia" headquarters were searched and the documents found. Involved were Philip Jaffe, Kate Mitchell, Mary Gayn, John S. Service, Lieut. Andrew Roth and Emmanuel S. Larson.

After Alger Hiss was convicted, it was impossible to disregard the "Amerasia" case. A Senatorial committee, headed by Senator Millard Tydings, was appointed to investigate, in particular, charges made by Senator Joe McCarthy on Communist infiltration into the State Department. At first, Senator Tydings seemed to be anxious to do a thorough job. However, political exigencies drove him to the whitewash pail. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said of the Tydings Committee, of which he was a member:

"The investigation must be set down as superficial and inconclusive. The proceedings often lacked impartiality; the atmosphere was too often not that of seeking to ascertain the truth. The subcommittee's record is a tangle of loose threads, of witnesses who were not subpoenaed, of leads which were not followed up."

Much more can be written in recapitulation, but there is no space here, except to say that under both President Roosevelt and President Truman, Communists flourished in our government.

That Body of Yours

METHODS OF ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

In my early school days we were taught a method of resuscitation of the near dead known as the Sylvester method. In this method, the patient is placed on his back. The operator kneels at the head and grasps arms just above wrists. He lifts arms upward and then draws them back to the ground above victim's head. Arms are then replaced on chest with forearms crossed and pressure downward is applied.

The Shaffer method has been in use for a great many years and is still used in the majority of cases. The patient lies on his abdomen; the operator kneels astride the victim's legs; he then leans forward applying gradual pressure downward with his hand on floating ribs forcing the abdominal organs out of the way so that the diaphragm (floor of chest) will thus give more room for chest to draw in air as the operator releases the pressure. Pressure and release occur about 14 times to the minute.

Another method much in use in Europe, is the Eve method, in which the patient is placed on his back on a board and board on a fulcrum and a teeter-totter given the patient. The down movement sends organs against the chest and drives out air. Then the up movement allows air to flow into the lungs. This method, while simple, requires a board and fulcrum which may not be available.

The patient is placed in prone position (on his abdomen) with his hands resting upon each other and the face turned to the side and placed on the hands. The operator kneels on one or both knees near the victim's head; he places one knee near top of victim's head in order to keep the hands from slipping out from under the face. Grasping the arms just above the elbows, he rocks backward and lifts them upward and toward himself until firm resistance is met. The arms are then replaced on the ground and the operator rocks forward, placing his hands on the mid-back (over the lower portion of the shoulder blades) with the fingers spread and the thumbs just touching at the spine. He then exerts pressure straight downwards; the cycle is repeated 10 to 12 times per minute. This arm-lift causes active inspiration of air by stretching the front chest muscles relieving weight from breast bone and over-extending the spine. The back pressure pushed air out of lungs and the arm lift draws air into lungs.

While the Shaffer method is still the most popular, the arm-lift back pressure method has much to recommend it.

Murder in Maryland

There was some frantic backstage manipulating aboard the Eisenhower train as it rolled into Maryland. The general had been tipped off that Edward Grammer, on trail for murdering his wife, then putting her in a runaway automobile, would try to subpoena Eisenhower as a character witness.

This started some urgent telegrams to Maryland authorities beginning at 3 a. m. Finally, Maryland's secretary of state dug up an old law which held that a man need not testify as a character witness if he signed an affidavit that he didn't know the defendant. Eisenhower promptly signed such an affidavit and quit worrying about process-servers.

Sneak-Attack

Friends of Senator Kem of Missouri are planning a last-minute sneak attack on Stuart Symington, now running against Kem for the Senate. They will charge that Symington was once convicted for stealing an automobile in Baltimore.

Of course, politics can be pretty dirty. But the real facts are that Symington, when seventeen years old, went for a ride with two other boys in a car belonging to their next-door neighbor. That was in the days when there weren't so many automobiles. Unfortunately the boy who was driving ran the car into a ditch, the neighbors naturally got sore and the three boys were fined $25 each.

However, the neighbor, Harry Dorsey Watts, learning that the incident might be used against Symington in the Senate race, wrote him a letter:

"Your father," he wrote, "one of my closest friends, immediately got together with the parents of the other boys and paid me in full for the damage. The incident was only a prank, and it's absurd that it could be considered anything else 34 years later."

Note—One man who really tried to clean up Washington is Symington—regardless of any joy-riding in his youth.

Veep Nominee Has Set Record, Has Become Widely Known in Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 1—This campaign has already set a record in one respect—it's the first time a Vice-Presidential nominee has become widely known. Judging by the mail and telegrams received by the Republican National Committee, more persons know Sen. Richard M. Nixon than ever before knew a Vice-Presidential nominee.

As for the big crowds which are assembling to hear Sen. Nixon everywhere, he probably holds the record for attendance at meetings addressed by any Vice-Presidential nominee in recent years.

Sen. Nixon has been here a few days and naturally the reporters have been asking him for further details which here and there some critics are saying were omitted from his nation-wide television and radio speech or were not fully understood. The Senator has decided not to discuss the matter for quotation any further, because he feels it has resolved itself now into a smokescreen designed to divert attention from the main issues of the campaign.

This correspondent has obtained the following information bearing on various questions asked since the historic telecast:

1. How did the Senator accumulate the $20,000 for the down payment on his house? The answer is this: by a careful reading of the speech it will be found that the Senator and his wife had $10,000 saved before he was elected to Congress. His speech revealed that he and his wife inherited $4,500. He also stated that he averaged $1,500 a year from speaking or about $7,500 in five years. This totals more than the $20,000 needed for the down payment. Incidentally, a number of Senators own homes of comparable worth in the same neighborhood.

2. Why did an article in "The Saturday Evening Post" quote Mrs. Nixon last summer as saying, "We were broke and didn't have enough money for postage stamps"? This refers to the first Nixon campaign for Congress, which indeed was without adequate funds.

3. Why didn't the Senator give out his income-tax returns? The answer is that the Treasury Department has them on file now and, if there were the slighest discrepency between the statement in his speech as to the only sources of income and anything reported in his income tax, that fact could surely become known to the Administration. To put it another way, nobody thinks any one like Senator Nixon would ever venture to make a public statement of his sources of income and fail to include any that had been reported on his income-tax return. So the Senator is said to have felt any disclosure of the text of his income-tax return would be superfluous.

4. Why did Senator Nixon say in his speech: "Every penny of it (the fund) was used to pay for political expenses and I did not think should be charged to the taxpayers of the United States?" The answer is this: the main items for which the certified public accounting firm revealed the $18,000 fund had been spent could have been paid for by money received in various ways, such as putting one's wife on the Senate office pay roll for $8,000, using the "frank" or free postage system to take care of about $4,200 in Christmas greetings to 20,000 constituents, and $1,200 for postage, which brings the items to a total of $13,400. The remainder, which consisted of $2,367 for radio recordings, $2,069 for stationery, and $920 for extra office staff, makes a total of more than $18,000, and these items could have been paid for out of the funds of the chairman of a committee or subcommittee of the Senate if Mr. Nixon had chosen to work himself into such a post. For the committee and subcommiteee chairmen in Congress have considerable funds to use for radio recordings and speeches and for travel and extra office help. Items like these are often paid for out of taxpayers' money. Thus, a Christmas-greeting letter could start out by stating that the Senator in the new year ahead was at the service of his constituents for any information needed from government departments and outlining further any data that might be given the taxpayer but winding up with a special Christmas and New Year greeting. Such a letter can ride postage free and many of them are sent out annually by members of Congress to their constituents.

The sponsors of the Nixon fund were told in a letter from Dana Smith dated Sept. 25, 1951, about every important item for which the money solicited would be used, including the cost of sending Christmas cards "to the people who worked in his (the Senator's) campaign or contributed financially to it. Much to our surprise we find that this group numbers 20,000."

In that same letter, Mr. Smith explicitly informed every prospective contributor: "The reason for the maximum ($500) was so that it can never be charged that any one is contributing so much as to think he is entitled to special favors."

From beginning to end, the fund was handled on a business-like basis with a plain warning that no obligation was being incurred by the Senator. Every penny was accounted for and used for expenses connected with public service and not for personal enrichment of the California Senator himself.

Gov. Stevenson used funds left over from the campaign to pay travel expenses in making certain speeches. He also supplemented salaries of state officials so that his own administration would be successful and its prestige enhanced through the service rendered to the people of Illinois.

Though persistent efforts are being made by critics of both the Governor and the Senator to keep the issue alive, it does look as if all the essential facts have now been made available in both cases.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

William Zeckendorf, a rich and prominent New York real estate dealer and a "liberal" in his politics, is a grandson of a pioneer citizen of Tucson, of the same name, who showed initiative and courage in a crisis there in 1873 which resembled the current reign of terror in New York.

On a sultry August evening Vicente Hernandez and his wife, Librada, who ran a general store and pawnshop, bedded down near the front door of their store which they left open, hoping to get the benefit of a little draft. The next morning, an early customer found the doors to both the store and sleeping quarters closed and locked and, when he could not raise an answer by pounding and shouting, called Constable Frank Esparza and the sheriff.

They broke into the sleeping quarters. Mr. and Mrs. Hernandez had been bludgeoned and slashed to death. The furniture had been tumbled about and there was other evidence that the victims had resisted as long as they could.

In a reminiscent story published in the Tucson Citizen in 1940, Roscoe G. Willson wrote:

"In the adjoining room, bloody footprints and hand and fingerprints were everywhere, particularly at the case of jewelry and the cash receptacle. Neighbors verified the absence of considerable jewelry, several firearms and a valuable, silver-mounted saddle and its accoutrements, establishing the fact that robbery was the motive.

"Excitement ran high and the leading citizens, both American and Mexican, joined in expressing their horror and their determination to bring the assassins to quick justice. Not only were the Hernandez' a popular young couple, well liked by all classes, but their killing was the culmination of a series of bloody atrocities that the law-abiding citizens felt must be brought to an end. There was a feeling that the courts had been too lenient in dealings with murders and other violent outlawry.

"A citizens' committee for investigation and action was formed at once, with the well-known merchant, William Zeckendorf, at its head, to run down the murderers and deal with them by direct action rather than through the courts. It was not exactly a vigilante organization such as was known in the California gold days or the Montana Alder Gulch diggings where the vigilantes were secretly organized, had their elected officers who were unknown to the general public, their secret passwords and warning sign to outlaws, such as Alder Gulch's 3-7-77.

"Toward evening the following day, a Mexican woman appeared at one of the stores, made a few purchases and, in payment offered a bill showing blood stains."

Incidentally, this bill may have been one of Mr. Zeckendorf's own private issue which was legal tender in Arizona territory, in parts of Sonora, Mexico, and in California. Gold, hides, hay and beans were the standard media but they were clumsy and the currency of Zeckendorf brothers, Louis, Aaron and William, reading "L. Zeckendorf & Co. promise to pay bearer in merchandise, on demand," five, ten or a hundred dol-

Weather Chief Says Kennedy Forecast Bunk for Winter

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP) — One weatherman took issue yesterday with another's prediction that New York state is due for "an old-fashioned winter."

Ernest C. Johnson, chief meteorologist at the U. S. Weather Bureau Station here, said he was "shocked" at the forecast of a long, snowy winter reported to have been made by William Kennedy of the Bear Mountain Station. The New York Herald Tribune attributed the forecast to Kennedy.

Kennedy had "no authority to make such a statement and I doubt if he's qualified," Johnson said.

The Bear Mountain Station is staffed with "junior personnel who will soon be replaced by automatic equipment," he added.

Johnson said he had no facts to indicate whether the winter would be mild.

"In almost 25 years of study of hemispheric weather conditions, I would never attempt such a prediction," he said.

The Herald Tribune quoted Kennedy as saying that pressure patterns indicated an "old fashioned winter" would make its first onslaught for the year in the lower Hudson Valley and the New York city area in November.

Navy Has Passenger Service

An Airbase in Southern Japan (AP)—As far as Navy fliers are concerned, the plush duty in the Korean war is operating the "codfish airlines" passenger service. About 30 officers and men maintain the shore-to-ship-to-shore shuttle service between Task Force 77 off the Korean northeast coast and Itazuke, in Southern Japan. The name "codfish airlines" derives from a faulty contraction of "carrier on board delivery service." The planes used are old torpedo bombers. As a safety precaution the planes fly in pairs whether there are enough passengers for two planes or not.

TABLE MANNER TECHNICALITY

A girl writes: "Will you please settle a point of table manners that has been causing quite an argument in our house since my sister has gone on a diet. We have no one waiting on table and all the serving dishes, including the bread tray, are put on the table and passed around. My sister takes a slice of bread from the tray, breaks it in half and puts the other half back. I have told her time and again that it is very bad table manners to put the bread back for others to eat after she has touched it. She sees nothing wrong in this and says it would be wasteful to leave it on her plate to be thrown away. Will you please settle this for us?"

I agree with you.

Sandwiches Finger Foods

Dear Mrs. Post: I would appreciate your telling me the correct way to eat a cold chicken sandwich. I always thought I knew how to eat one until the other night when my fiance criticized me for picking it up and eating it in the fingers. He said I should eat it with a knife and fork. Who is right?

Answer: Sandwiches have always been rated as finger foods. To eat one with a knife and fork would be ridiculous! Unless you mean an overstuffed "club sandwich" two inches thick.

Birthday Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon be celebrating my 18th birthday and plan on having a birthday party. I would like very much to invite the boy who lives next door to me to the party but would like your opinion before doing so. We have never been formally introduced to each other but we do say "hello" whenever we meet and he seems very friendly. Mother thinks he will get the idea that I am running after him.

Answer: If your party is to be of any size, you very certainly may invite him.

Leather Worker Crushed in Press

Belleville, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—A 50-year-old worker, his hand caught in the vise-like grip of a roller, was drawn into a huge machine press and crushed to death last night.

Gerhard Korteling of Clifton died before horrified co-workers at the Federal Leather Co. could turn off the leather coating machine.

Raul Hernandez, 26, of Newark, grabbed Korteling around the waist but had to release his hold as the gears carried the screaming Korteling into the press.

Is Freed in Court; Had Pain in Head

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A disabled tank corps veteran, seized as a prowler in a West 13th street, Manhattan, rooming house early yesterday, was freed by Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen in Felony Court after the court allowed the complainant to withdraw burglary and felonious assault charges.

The defendant was Edward J. Maloney, 31, of 7 Cain Lane, Levittown, operator of a newsstand at 14th street and first avenue, Manhattan. The camplainant was Otto Eisold, of 110 West 13th street.

Benjamin Schmier, Legal Aid Society attorney who represented Maloney, told the court the man had been drinking. He said the man suffered pains in his head as a result of his war injuries and drinking dulls the pain.

Bumped Into Him

Maloney told him, the lawyer said, that someone had bumped into him on the street and he had followed the man, thinking he had entered the 13th street building. Eisold, who occupies a basement apartment, heard someone in the upstairs hallway and feared for the safety of their 16-year-old daughter, who sleeps in a first floor room.

As Eisold began to go upstairs from the basement, police said, Maloney called out for him to "come up with your hands over your head or I'll kill you," and then kicked a ladder down the stairs and tossed a bag of laundry at Eisold.

Says Threat Made

The latter grabbed a war surplus rifle and called out, "I'm going to shoot you," but Maloney replied, "I'm going to come down after you. I'm going to kill you," it was charged.

Eisold said he ran through an areaway to the street. He said Maloney chased him and he (Mr. Eisold) threw the rifle at Maloney, hitting him in the head and causing a gash later requiring three stitches at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Maloney was arrested as he was fleeing the scene in his automobile, police said.

Historic Dutch Records Damaged

Valued historical materials were found watersoaked and possibly rotted when the cornerstone of the 100-year-old First Dutch Church building was cut into and the copper box opened on Saturday afternoon.

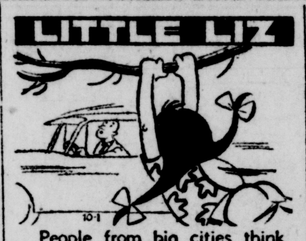
The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, who had hoped to use the materials and documents on Sunday morning in connection with a re-dedication service, said they would be carefully dried out in the hope that at least some of the papers will be readable. Then they will be replaced in a new metal box, sealed, and put back in the cornerstone.

The interior of the box was saturated with water when it was opened on Saturday, the water coming either as a result of seepage or condensation. The box itself had not been sealed and there was also a hole in its lid, possibly the result of being struck with a tool when the stone was orginally laid a century ago.

The church's present building was formally dedicated Sept. 28, 1852. It is the fifth house of worship to be used by the congregation, which was organized in 1659.

General to Retire

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, commanding general of the First Army, will retire from active military service Dec. 31. The army's senior cavalryman and senior armored warfare officer will be 62, the mandatory retirement age for general officers, on Dec. 2. Crittenberger, who has been in his present post with headquarters on Governors Island here since Nov. 1, 1950, announced his retirement plans last night.



Council to Offer Scout Leadership Training Courses

Six-week courses for the training of Cub leaders and scoutmasters will begin at 7:45 p. m. Friday, Oct. 3, under the auspices of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The course for Cub leaders will be held at St. James Methodist Church in Kingston for six consecutive Friday nights under the direction of Henry Eighmey, Cubmaster of Pack 15, sponsored by the Church of the Comforter, Kingston.

The topics to be considered will be as follows: Oct. 3, Fundamentals of Cub Scouting; Oct. 10, Program Planning; Oct. 17, the Den Meeting; Oct. 24, the Achievement Plan; Nov. 7, Pack Administration and the Den Meeting Place, and Nov. 14, the Pack Meeting and Den Mother - Den Chief Relationships.

The scoutmaster's course will be held in the basement of the Reformed Church, Saugerties, under the direction of Sidney D. Haas, scoutmaster of Troop 74 sponsored by the New Paltz VFW. He will be assisted by Henry Black, Southern District Leadership Training chairman of Modena.

Topics to be considered will be: Oct. 3, Patrol and Troop Organization and Leadership; Oct. 10, Patrol and Troop Program Planning; Oct. 17, Patrol and Troop Meetings; Oct. 24, Patrol and Troop Hiking; Nov. 7, Patrol and Troop Hiking, and Nov. 14, Helping the Individual Boy to Grow.

The announcements were made by Harold VanVoorhis of Saugerties, chairman of the leadership training committee of the Council. VanVoorhis also pointed out that at each of the monthly district meetings to be held in the seven districts of the Council in October there would be a one-night training course on Advancement in the Troop, a course primarily for Scoutmasters, assistants, chairmen of troop committees and the advancement chairman in each troop.

He said that the courses were nationally approved and that credit would be given at each session toward the Scouter's training key or training award. Certificates will be presented to all participants who successfully complete the course.

As Pegler Sees It

lars was known to be as good as gold. The brothers had driven a train of 20 wagons through the Apache country from the end of the Santa Fe trail and set up in a tent the store which today, under the ownership of the Steinfeld family and under the management of the Zeckendorfs' grandnephew, Harold Steinfeld, is a shining institution in the desert country.

The woman who offered the blood-stained bill said she had got it from an "associate," in Mr. Willson's chivalrous term, who was known as Saguaripa. He had been out most of the night and when he returned to his own flop in the morning he had washed his hands several times and changed his clothing. He had hidden the clothes that he took off.

"Saguaripa was taken in chains to look at the murdered couple," Willson's story continues. "He broke down and confessed that he and an accomplice named Cordova had done the killing while an accomplice named Lopez stood guard in the street. Cordova and Lopez were picked up. Cordova's footprints exactly matched the bloody prints. Lopez could not be induced to talk. The stolen articles were found where the three criminals had cached them. The money, $35 or $40, had been divided.

"The morning after the murder, Librada and Vincenta Hernandez were buried. Practically the entire population attended the funeral.

"That afternoon, the villagers gathered at the courthouse plaza where William Zeckendorf told them of the confession of Saguaripa, of the prints being those of Cordova and of the discovery of the loot. He also reminded them of the presence of a large lawless element and of the many criminals who had in the past escaped punishment through trickery or leniency in the courts, or through breaking jail and escaping into Mexico.

"He asked what should be done and with almost one voice the citizens voted to hang the murderers at once. In anticipation, a framework had been set up near the jail door with four ropes suspended. The three murderers of the Hernandez couple were placed in a wagon. The fourth rope was for a brutal murderer known as John Willis, who, while under sentence to be hanged, had succeeded through the courts in securing various delays. At the time he was expecting another reprieve. Willis joined the three in the wagon.

"The four men, heavily manacled, were fitted with black caps, the ropes were placed around their necks and the wagon was pulled out from under them."

Mr. Willson closed with the observation that times had changed considerably since 1873.

But they have come almost a full turn in New York where rape and the murder of both women and men have struck real fear into the hearts of the people. Nevertheless, some of the newspapers, in cowardly submission to an organized intimidation, have even refused to publish essential points in the descriptions of most of the criminals. This cowardice is called "liberalism."

The law is unable to protect the people but threatens with prison or the electric chair any citizen or group of citizens who should emulate William Zeckendorf and the Citizens' Committee for investigation and action of Tucson, Arizona.

Navy Has Passenger Service

An Airbase in Southern Japan (AP)—As far as Navy fliers are concerned, the plush duty in the Korean war is operating the "codfish airlines" passenger service. About 30 officers and men maintain the shore-to-ship-to-shore shuttle service between Task Force 77 off the Korean northeast coast and Itazuke, in Southern Japan. The name "codfish airlines" derives from a faulty contraction of "carrier on board delivery service." The planes used are old torpedo bombers. As a safety precaution the planes fly in pairs whether there are enough passengers for two planes or not.

Woman Gets Son Plus Son-in-Law Same Day

Cortland, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Clarence Homer acquired a son and a son-in-law on the same day.

At 12:40 a. m., she gave birth to an eight-pound, one-ounce boy in Cortland Hospital.

At 2 p. m., she attended the wedding of her daughter, Evelyn Louise, to William Robert Hulbert of Homer, in a Cortland church.

Mrs. Homer went to the wedding in a wheel chair. She then returned to the hospital.

TABLE MANNER TECHNICALITY

A girl writes: "Will you please settle a point of table manners that has been causing quite an argument in our house since my sister has gone on a diet. We have no one waiting on table and all the serving dishes, including the bread tray, are put on the table and passed around. My sister takes a slice of bread from the tray, breaks it in half and puts the other half back. I have told her time and again that it is very bad table manners to put the bread back for others to eat after she has touched it. She sees nothing wrong in this and says it would be wasteful to leave it on her plate to be thrown away. Will you please settle this for us?"

I agree with you.

Sandwiches Finger Foods

Dear Mrs. Post: I would appreciate your telling me the correct way to eat a cold chicken sandwich. I always thought I knew how to eat one until the other night when my fiance criticized me for picking it up and eating it in the fingers. He said I should eat it with a knife and fork. Who is right?

Answer: Sandwiches have always been rated as finger foods. To eat one with a knife and fork would be ridiculous! Unless you mean an overstuffed "club sandwich" two inches thick.

Birthday Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon be celebrating my 18th birthday and plan on having a birthday party. I would like very much to invite the boy who lives next door to me to the party but would like your opinion before doing so. We have never been formally introduced to each other but we do say "hello" whenever we meet and he seems very friendly. Mother thinks he will get the idea that I am running after him.

Answer: If your party is to be of any size, you very certainly may invite him.

Leather Worker Crushed in Press

Belleville, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—A 50-year-old worker, his hand caught in the vise-like grip of a roller, was drawn into a huge machine press and crushed to death last night.

Gerhard Korteling of Clifton died before horrified co-workers at the Federal Leather Co. could turn off the leather coating machine.

Raul Hernandez, 26, of Newark, grabbed Korteling around the waist but had to release his hold as the gears carried the screaming Korteling into the press.

Is Freed in Court; Had Pain in Head

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A disabled tank corps veteran, seized as a prowler in a West 13th street, Manhattan, rooming house early yesterday, was freed by Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen in Felony Court after the court allowed the complainant to withdraw burglary and felonious assault charges.

The defendant was Edward J. Maloney, 31, of 7 Cain Lane, Levittown, operator of a newsstand at 14th street and first avenue, Manhattan. The camplainant was Otto Eisold, of 110 West 13th street.

Benjamin Schmier, Legal Aid Society attorney who represented Maloney, told the court the man had been drinking. He said the man suffered pains in his head as a result of his war injuries and drinking dulls the pain.

Bumped Into Him

Maloney told him, the lawyer said, that someone had bumped into him on the street and he had followed the man, thinking he had entered the 13th street building. Eisold, who occupies a basement apartment, heard someone in the upstairs hallway and feared for the safety of their 16-year-old daughter, who sleeps in a first floor room.

As Eisold began to go upstairs from the basement, police said, Maloney called out for him to "come up with your hands over your head or I'll kill you," and then kicked a ladder down the stairs and tossed a bag of laundry at Eisold.

Says Threat Made

The latter grabbed a war surplus rifle and called out, "I'm going to shoot you," but Maloney replied, "I'm going to come down after you. I'm going to kill you," it was charged.

Eisold said he ran through an areaway to the street. He said Maloney chased him and he (Mr. Eisold) threw the rifle at Maloney, hitting him in the head and causing a gash later requiring three stitches at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Maloney was arrested as he was fleeing the scene in his automobile, police said.

Historic Dutch Records Damaged

Valued historical materials were found watersoaked and possibly rotted when the cornerstone of the 100-year-old First Dutch Church building was cut into and the copper box opened on Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, who had hoped to use the materials and documents on Sunday morning in connection with a re-dedication service, said they would be carefully dried out in the hope that at least some of the papers will be readable. Then they will be replaced in a new metal box, sealed, and put back in the cornerstone.

The interior of the box was saturated with water when it was opened on Saturday, the water coming either as a result of seepage or condensation. The box itself had not been sealed and there was also a hole in its lid, possibly the result of being struck with a tool when the stone was orginally laid a century ago.

The church's present building was formally dedicated Sept. 28, 1852. It is the fifth house of worship to be used by the congregation, which was organized in 1659.

General to Retire

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, commanding general of the First Army, will retire from active military service Dec. 31. The army's senior cavalryman and senior armored warfare officer will be 62, the mandatory retirement age for general officers, on Dec. 2. Crittenberger, who has been in his present post with headquarters on Governors Island here since Nov. 1, 1950, announced his retirement plans last night.

Council to Offer Scout Leadership Training Courses

Six-week courses for the training of Cub leaders and scoutmasters will begin at 7:45 p. m. Friday, Oct. 3, under the auspices of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The course for Cub leaders will be held at St. James Methodist Church in Kingston for six consecutive Friday nights under the direction of Henry Eighmey, Cubmaster of Pack 15, sponsored by the Church of the Comforter, Kingston.

The topics to be considered will be as follows: Oct. 3, Fundamentals of Cub Scouting; Oct. 10, Program Planning; Oct. 17, the Den Meeting; Oct. 24, the Achievement Plan; Nov. 7, Pack Administration and the Den Meeting Place, and Nov. 14, the Pack Meeting and Den Mother - Den Chief Relationships.

The scoutmaster's course will be held in the basement of the Reformed Church, Saugerties, under the direction of Sidney D. Haas, scoutmaster of Troop 74 sponsored by the New Paltz VFW. He will be assisted by Henry Black, Southern District Leadership Training chairman of Modena.

Topics to be considered will be: Oct. 3, Patrol and Troop Organization and Leadership; Oct. 10, Patrol and Troop Program Planning; Oct. 17, Patrol and Troop Meetings; Oct. 24, Patrol and Troop Hiking; Nov. 7, Patrol and Troop Hiking, and Nov. 14, Helping the Individual Boy to Grow.

The announcements were made by Harold VanVoorhis of Saugerties, chairman of the leadership training committee of the Council. VanVoorhis also pointed out that at each of the monthly district meetings to be held in the seven districts of the Council in October there would be a one-night training course on Advancement in the Troop, a course primarily for Scoutmasters, assistants, chairmen of troop committees and the advancement chairman in each troop.

He said that the courses were nationally approved and that credit would be given at each session toward the Scouter's training key or training award. Certificates will be presented to all participants who successfully complete the course.

Chon Wrong Answer

Somewhere in Korea, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sgt. Louis J. Movic, McKeesport, Pa.; Sgt. Jerry L. Lawless, St. Louis, and Lt. Loyd A. Thomas, Jr., Daphne, Ala., were out on patrol. They heard a noise in a clump of weeds. "Halt! Who's there?" Movic called. "No," answered a voice in the blackness. "No, who?" asked Movic. "Chon," came the answer. They buried Chon and four Communist comrades today.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slowdown of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

As Pegler Sees It

lars was known to be as good as gold. The brothers had driven a train of 20 wagons through the Apache country from the end of the Santa Fe trail and set up in a tent the store which today, under the ownership of the Steinfeld family and under the managemen of the Zeckendorfs' grandnephew, Harold Steinfeld, is a shining institution in the desert country.

The woman who offered the blood-stained bill said she had got it from an "associate," in Mr. Willson's chivalrous term, who was known as Saguaripa. He had been out most of the night and when he returned to his own flop in the morning he had washed his hands several times and changed his clothing. He had hidden the clothes that he took off.

"Saguaripa was taken in chains to look at the murdered couple," Willson's story continues. "He broke down and confessed that he and an accomplice named Cordova had done the killing while an accomplice named Lopez stood guard in the street. Cordova and Lopez were picked up. Cordova's footprints exactly matched the bloody prints. Lopez could not be induced to talk. The stolen articles were found where the three criminals had cached them. The money, $35 or $40, had been divided.

"The morning after the murder, Librada and Vincenta Hernandez were buried. Practically the entire population attended the funeral.

"That afternoon, the villagers gathered at the courthouse plaza where William Zeckendorf told them of the confession of Saguaripa, of the prints being those of Cordova and of the discovery of the loot. He also reminded them of the presence of a large lawless element and of the many criminals who had in the past escaped punishment through trickery or leniency in the courts, or through breaking jail and escaping into Mexico.

"He asked what should be done and with almost one voice the citizens voted to hang the murderers at once. In anticipation, a framework had been set up near the jail door with four ropes suspended. The three murderers of the Hernandez couple were placed in a wagon. The fourth rope was for a brutal murderer known as John Willis, who, while under sentence to be hanged, had succeeded through the courts in securing various delays. At the time he was expecting another reprieve. Willis joined the three in the wagon.

"The four men, heavily manacled, were fitted with black caps, the ropes were placed around their necks and the wagon was pulled out from under them."

Mr. Willson closed with the observation that times had changed considerably since 1873.

But they have come almost a full turn in New York where rape and the murder of both women and men have struck real fear into the hearts of the people. Nevertheless, some of the newspapers, in cowardly submission to an organized intimidation, have even refused to publish essential points in the descriptions of most of the criminals. This cowardice is called "liberalism."

The law is unable to protect the people but threatens with prison or the electric chair any citizen or group of citizens who should emulate William Zeckendorf and the Citizens' Committee for investigation and action of Tucson, Arizona.

Jet Anniversary

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Aviation marked the tenth anniversary of the first jet-powered flight by an American plane today. The plane, a P-59A Airacomet—a top-secret project of World War 2—was built by Bell Aircraft Co. at Buffalo, N. Y. Its two jet engines were produced by General Electric at Lynn, Mass. Planes and engines were shipped by freight train to Muroc, Calif., where a Bell test pilot took the P-59A up for its initial flight Oct. 1, 1942.

Worry!
349 Clifton Avenue,
Kingston, N. Y.
Sept. 20, 1952.

Editor, The Freeman:

It is a psychological fact that constant worry over a long period can cause chronic ailments like stomach ulcers, asthma, skin disorders and even heart disease.

Worry has a psychopathological effect on the human mental nervous system and when one speaks of nervous indigestion it is merely emotional indigestion. A strong emotional state can lead to serious consequences such as rages, hysteria, suicide impulses, etc. Of course, under such circumstances, psychiatry is the solution, but why let worry be our master in the first place?

I believe that fatigue is emotional because the nerves are overworked, thus causing loss of sleep.

It can be seen without reservation that if we would be healthy, mental and physical, we must analyze our emotions, because excessive worry is a danger. Worry appears to be the escape route to solve our difficulties, but we accomplish nothing in either direction because "a hundred pounds of worry won't pay one ounce of debt."

I wouldn't want to terminate this article without expounding some philosophy from my own experience, relative to the conquest of worry.

First, don't be an introvert. There is someone with whom you can confide. Quiet conversations are very relaxing.

Secondly, create a hobby by doing something you enjoy, whether by yourself or with friends or relatives.

Therefore, it is very important to learn to relax. Since different people have differnt forms of relaxation you must select what conforms with your own need, such as reading, writing, outdoor exercise, or your favorite sport.

This rhyme by David Keppel attests to the folly of worry.

Better never trouble trouble
Until trouble troubles you;
For you only make your trouble
Double-trouble when you do;
And the trouble—like a bubble—
That you're troubling about,
May be nothing but a cipher
With its rim rubbed out.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HIGBY.

Chloromycetin Defended

Singapore (AP) — Medical practitioners here who have had no trouble using chloromycetin are surprised that the wonder drug which had its early trials in Malaya is facing a possible ban. A Washington report had said the drugs was "up for hearing before some of the United States top scientists" and that the Food and Drug Administration might consider banning it, restricting its use, or allowing continued use under defined methods of treatment. Two well known medical practitioners said they have used it successfully for treatment of infantile disorders, whooping cough, dysentry and typhoid.

UNCLE EF

Some people are awful slow to take a hint. However, after three annual American Legion national conventions have adopted resolutions demanding that the Secretary of State be fired, Doc Smithers says he hopes Acheson understands by this time the Legion doesn't like him.

When a horn blows while you're crossing the street, you usually make a wild dash for the nearest sidewalk. This may not be dignified, and you may give the horn a dirty look, but it's a good way to grow old.

The same sort of thing happens in bridge. When a loud danger signal goes off in your ear, that's the time to jump. Today's sad story is about a player who forgot to jump.

West didn't see how he could beat two spades without some sort of luck and ingenuity, so he opened the king of hearts. This sort of opening lead shrieked out loud that West had only one more heart and was trying to get a ruff. It also indicated that West was a bit desperate with a bad hand, so that East probably had most of the high cards.

Having seen the danger, South should have gone right after the trumps by laying down the ace and continuing with a low trump. The contract would be safe if East had the ace or jack of diamonds, or if the opponents failed to take two club tricks.

But South didn't want to be rushed, so he didn't jump for safety. He won the first trick with the ace of hearts and tried to get to dummy with the king of clubs in order to try a trump finesse. East took the ace of clubs and returned the three of diamonds.

South won with the king of diamonds and persisted in the attempt to reach dummy by leading a low heart to dummy's queen. This brilliant maneuver permitted him to take a losing trump finesse to West's king.

West no longer expected to beat the contract, but his partner had led diamonds so he obediently returned the suit. East took the ace of diamonds and carefully cashed the queen of clubs. Then, deliberately omitting to cash the jack of hearts, East led the seven of hearts.

West was obliged to ruff, which gave him the lead. Since there was no other chance, West returned another diamond, and was delighted to find that East could ruff. This was the sixth defensive trick, so South had found a way to go down one trick.

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Five high school seniors have their minds on next spring. They recently had an all-night vigil in front of the school ticket office to buy the first low-number budget tickets entitling them to choice tickets for the "Central Daze," all-school show next year. The youths showed up with two alarm clocks, pillows, a sleeping bag, blankets, a lunch, portable radio and cigarettes.

Worry!
349 Clifton Avenue,
Kingston, N. Y.
Sept. 20, 1952.

Editor, The Freeman:

It is a psychological fact that constant worry over a long period can cause chronic ailments like stomach ulcers, asthma, skin disorders and even heart disease.

Worry has a psychopathological effect on the human mental nervous system and when one speaks of nervous indigestion it is merely emotional indigestion. A strong emotional state can lead to serious consequences such as rages, hysteria, suicide impulses, etc. Of course, under such circumstances, psychiatry is the solution, but why let worry be our master in the first place?

I believe that fatigue is emotional because the nerves are overworked, thus causing loss of sleep.

It can be seen without reservation that if we would be healthy, mental and physical, we must analyze our emotions, because excessive worry is a danger. Worry appears to be the escape route to solve our difficulties, but we accomplish nothing in either direction because "a hundred pounds of worry won't pay one ounce of debt."

I wouldn't want to terminate this article without expounding some philosophy from my own experience, relative to the conquest of worry.

First, don't be an introvert. There is someone with whom you can confide. Quiet conversations are very relaxing.

Secondly, create a hobby by doing something you enjoy, whether by yourself or with friends or relatives.

Therefore, it is very important to learn to relax. Since different people have differnt forms of relaxation you must select what conforms with your own need, such as reading, writing, outdoor exercise, or your favorite sport.

This rhyme by David Keppel attests to the folly of worry.

Better never trouble trouble
Until trouble troubles you;
For you only make your trouble
Double-trouble when you do;
And the trouble—like a bubble—
That you're troubling about,
May be nothing but a cipher
With its rim rubbed out.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HIGBY.

"Your Right To Know" is a sacred right guaranteed by the constitution. It is one of the basic rights and principles for which the American Revolution was fought. Newspapermen, from the local legman covering town-council meetings, to big-name syndicated columnists, have one obligation. It is to you, their reader and to "Your Right to Know." Your newspaper reporter is a front-line soldier fighting suppression and control of the press. He is there because you and everyone else has a right to know what is going on in the world. The newspapers of America are engaged in a day-by-day battle to defend this privilege. Sometimes, in a dictatorship, it is taken away. It has never existed behind the "Iron Curtain." Wherever special interests are entrenched, there you will find people who do not enjoy the priceless privilege called "The Right to Know." Many of them move in ignorance of what their country's leaders are doing. There is no way for them to know.

America's future economic fortunes are tied up with her political decisions. Do the voters want any economic changes? Only the November elections can answer that. As I recently pointed out in this column, inflationary prosperity is popular with many people.

If there is no political change in November, I believe the country can look forward to a four year continuation of our present economic policy. Characteristics of this policy are: (1) unbalanced budgets and deficit financing (2) cheap money (3) big spending (4) high taxation.

Those are the things that have chiefly promoted inflation and caused prices and wages and taxes to soar. An economic life of austerity would be very repugnant to many whose day-to-day living floats on a sea of inflation. Try, for example, to persuade a building worker to take less than $24 for a seven hour day. And if enough high-price-and high-wage enthusiasts vote for further inflation, it is probable there will be no political change in 1953.

In such a case, it would be folly, it seems to me, for investors to sell good, dividend-paying stocks for dollars. And, at the same time, it would be unwise for dollar holders, getting little or no return from their currency, to hesitate about buying non-inflationary common stocks that have had long dividend records. Economic necessity should govern the investment decisions of most people.

If a person with $20,000 idle money needs about $100 a month to maintain a living standard, even in 1952 securities carefully chosen and paying 5, 6 and 7 per cent should be bought. Yes, stock prices may go lower; but where daily living expenses involve a hoarder of dollars, an investment should be made.

But what if there is a political change in 1953? What may the national economy be like then?

Well, I think (barring a world war) unbalanced budgets and deficit financing would come to an end. Money would get more expensive (bank stock prices have strengthened recently, probably reflecting dearer money). Spending would be cut and taxes reduced.

Yes, the national economy would start to have some of its inflation boiled out of its system. Inflation is like a fever and a well-regulated and orderly deflation (if such is possible) would help economic America to restore her health and strength.

Black figures instead of red out of, Washington, higher interest rates, lower spending — these would introduce a new element into the economy. And since this would characterize a sound deflationary movement, it is probable stock prices would be seriously affected—especially those infested with inflation.

Boiling inflation out of America would probably be a painful short-term event. Ridding anything or anybody of something dangerous usually leaves the subject weak and debilitated; but once recovery is under way, strength and health return rapidly.

So, speaking for myself, I can say I would welcome reduced spending, balanced budgets, dearer money and reduced taxes. The long term effect should be very salutary. The dollar should regain much of its lost integrity and the purchasing power of our money should increase.

The practical interpretation of the views expressed here is not too difficult a task. Here are some ideas:

1) Stockholders with large profits percentagewise, who believe political changes are due in 1953, should cash some of them in if capital gains are economically significant.

2) Conversely, those with idle funds and not needing immediate income should six months to see what political tides will roll in.

3) Investors, whose investigated incomes are necessary for daily maintenance, of living standards, should sit tight.

Want to Win? Learn to Meld

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Sometimes the question of whether to make the initial meld early or late depends on the kind of pairs you have in your hand. With high pairs, you tend to meld early; with low pairs, you tend to meld late.

Let's take an example. You hold a pair of jokers and a pair of kings, with both sides needing 120 points for the initial meld. Hence you are in position to make the initial meld with only four cards.

If the rest of your cards include, say, a pair of queens and a pair of jacks, you should make the initial meld at once. You have, to be sure, a fair chance to win the pack, but the enemy will probably throw low cards rather than queens or jacks.

Contrariwise, if the rest of your cards include a pair of sixes and a pair of sevens (instead of those queens and jacks) you should tend not to make your meld so quickly. The opponent at your right is likely to throw a six or seven in the hope that you don't have the count, but if you make your meld he will discard much more cautiously.

Q—We play six-handed Canasta and sometimes six-handed Samba. In such a game, what is the rule when a player wants to ask permission to meld out? The player has two partners, as you know. Does he ask both of them, or only one?

A—When you want to ask permission to go out, you must ask the partner at your left. You can't ask both partners, and you can't ask the partner at your right—at least, not to begin with.

The partner at your left must answer your question with "yes," "no," or "I pass." If he says "yes," you must meld out; and if he says "no," you must continue to play. In either such case the partner at your right has nothing to say in the matter. He must remain silent and must not indicate his wishes by facial expression or any other way.

If the partner at your left says "I pass," the decision is then up to the other partner. In this case, the partner at your right must say "yes" or "no."

When you ask permission, the partner at your left should pass unless he has a good reason for making a definite answer. If he is going to guess at the right answer, he can allow the other partner to do the guessing; and, after all, the other partner may have very strong wishes one way or the other.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

"Your Right To Know" is a sacred right guaranteed by the constitution. It is one of the basic rights and principles for which the American Revolution was fought. Newspapermen, from the local legman covering town-council meetings, to big-name syndicated columnists, have one obligation. It is to you, their reader and to "Your Right to Know." Your newspaper reporter is a front-line soldier fighting suppression and control of the press. He is there because you and everyone else has a right to know what is going on in the world. The newspapers of America are engaged in a day-by-day battle to defend this privilege. Sometimes, in a dictatorship, it is taken away. It has never existed behind the "Iron Curtain." Wherever special interests are entrenched, there you will find people who do not enjoy the priceless privilege called "The Right to Know." Many of them move in ignorance of what their country's leaders are doing. There is no way for them to know.

ULSTER PARK

Ulster Park, Oct. 1 — The next quarterly communion service will be held Sunday, Oct. 5, in the Reformed Church at 9:45 a. m. in charge of the Rev. Harry E. Christiana, pastor. The consistory will meet prior to the communion service in the church.

A Sunday school was organized last Sunday and regular sessions will be held after the church service each Sunday morning.

Weekday school of religious instruction will start Thursday at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Harry Christiana and Mrs. Frank Van Aken will be in charge.

The annual turkey supper will be held at the Grange Hall Thursday, Oct. 16, at 5:30 p. m. under the auspices of the Women's League for Service of the Reformed Church.

Ulster Grange will observe Booster Night in the Grange Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Every member may invite a guest. Every past master is expected to attend. An interesting program is being arranged by the lecturer and the lecturer-elect.

Members of the Gendreau family were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Gendreau's sister, Mrs. H. H. Crispell and family in Newburgh.

Richard C. Gendreau, Jr., spent Sunday in Albany.

The Hillside Club of Ulster Park School elected officers for the coming year including Patricia Gendreau, president; Jeanette Sahler, vice president; Patricia Lannigan, secretary and Barbara DuMond, treasurer.

Associations Are Praised

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Gov. Dewey says Parent-Teacher Associations have been "an invaluable partner" in the work of improving public school education. In a proclamation designating Oct. 5-11 "Parent-Teacher Membership Week" in New York, the governor said yesterday that "in the past nine years, education has made greater strides in the Empire State than in the preceding 20." Dewey said the advance was brought about by teamwork among private citizens, state agencies and local governments. "In this teamwork," Dewey said, "the Parent-Teacher Associations of the state have been an invaluable partner."

Industrial Deaths Drop

Rome (AP) — Newly released statistics disclose that 2,084 Italian workers died in 1951 in industrial accidents compared to 2,114 deaths in 1950. However, there were 553,613 recorded industrial accidents in 1951, an increase of 48,923 over the previous year.

Names Cabinet Head

Beirut, Lebanon, Oct. 1 (AP)—After a week of fruitless attempts at forming a full parliamentary government, Lebanon's President Camille Chamoun has named Amir Khalid Shehab to head a four-man administrative cabinet. The appointment decreed last night by Chamoun, appeared to have ended at least temporarily the ministerial crisis which followed the resignation last week of President Bechara El Khoury under opposition pressure. Chamoun was elected by Parliament to fill El Khoury's place.

Freeman A. B. C. Records Guarantee to Advertisers

Reports Based on Audits Available and Space Can Be Purchased on Known Values

A free press is the offspring of a free enterprise system. Without unshackled sources of information, freedom of thought perishes

Thomas Jefferson once explained this by saying, "Our liberty depends on freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost."

Recognizing that if the people were to remain free they must be adequately informed, the founders of this country wrote into the Bill of Rights a guarantee of the right of its people to know.

"Congress," they said, "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press."

While the constitution both protects and encourages the right of a free press, it could never provide for the maintenance of one. A government sponsored press is a controlled press.

How, then, does a free enterprise system maintain a free and independent press?

A newspaper has two sources of financial support; circulation and advertising revenues. Circulation income, derived from the sale of papers, is seldom adequate to support a publishing operation. The newspaper also sells a by-product commonly known as advertising space.

The relation between the newspaper and its reader is determined largely on its ability to report the news accurately and interestingly.

The relation between the newspaper and its advertisers is determined largely on its ability to provide an interested audience of potential consumers.

Factual Information

When advertisers buy advertising space they want factual information about the circulations of the publications in which they buy space. By the same token, it is essential that publishers be able to describe their circulations in a way that insures full credit for circulation claims.

Obviously, therefore, the integrity of relations between advertisers and publishers—the basis of successful advertising—requires and depends upon a uniform set of standards, understood and accepted by both the buyers and sellers of advertising space.

The federal government, of course, regulates and maintains standards for weights and measures. Likewise, certain factors relating to the sale and exchange of securities, the labeling of foods and drugs, and the business relations of individuals in transactions within industries has been controlled by government edict.

This is not so with the advertiser and the publisher—the buyer and the seller of advertising space. Their bureau of standards is the result of voluntary self-regulation, predicated on the same democratic principles that founded our free enterprise system.

Together, advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada formed the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a nonprofit association which today has more than 3,400 members, including The Freeman. In addition to newspapers, the Bureau's publisher membership includes magazines, business publications and farm publications.

Since the inception of the ABC in 1914, its members have cooperated in creating and maintaining a common set of circulation standards as a basis for mutual understanding between the buyers and sellers of advertising space. ABC members have continuously defined and refined these standards to meet with changing conditions in the industry.

Because of the ABC and through its work, advertisers may now analyze a newspaper's circulation to find the answers to such questions as: how much net paid circulation does the publication have; where do its subscribers live; how much does the subscriber pay; does the subscriber receive some extra incentive or premium for taking the publication.

Reports Available

To provide this information to advertisers, the ABC employs a staff of experienced auditors who make periodic audits of the circulation records of each publisher member. The reports based on these audits are then available to advertisers so they can buy space in newspapers and periodicals on the basis of definite standards and known values.

The ABC has furthered the cause of free enterprise in still another way. Without the factual information in ABC reports as a basis for their expenditures, it is probable that manufacturers would not appropriate the large sums for advertising that characterize today's economy. This large scale advertising results in increased sales, production and employment, factors that are essential to the present high standards of living in the United States and Canada.

In the case of merchants and other local advertisers, it is just as important that they, too, use a definite measure of values when they buy advertising space. They buy and sell merchandise by well known measures of weight, quality, color, etc., and now the ABC has made it possible for them to make their investments in newspaper advertising by means of equally accurate, verified information.

So long as this country has an unshackled press, its people shall have freedom of thought and freedom of enterprise. The Audit Bureau of Circulations, the keystone in the structure of successful advertising, is an indispensable factor in the maintenance of a free press.

As an ABC newspaper, The Freeman is proud of its affiliation with this activity that is effectively serving the principles of free enterprise in business.

Copies of our ABC report, illustrating the method by which the Bureau provides essential information to advertisers and giving the facts about the circulation of The Freeman are available to advertisers on request.

Newspaper Week Message Issued By the President

I hope the annual observance of National Newspaper Week, to be held from October first to October eighth, will re-emphasize to all Americans the importance of knowing the facts.

That is the reason why our Constitution guarantees freedom to the press. The newspapers which use their freedom to dig out and print the truth are vital to our democracy.

This is an election year. Probably at no other time do citizens need more exact and truthful information. An intelligent voter wants facts, not supposition or superstition. This gives our newspapers an unsurpassed opportunity to serve their country by supplying accurate and unbiased information so that their readers can be prepared for the choices they must make in November.

Please extend my best wishes to all those participating in National Newspaper Week. — HARRY S. TRUMAN, The White House, Washington.

Hurley School Open, Petry Says

William C. Petry, president of the Board of Education of the Old Hurley village school district, today denied the rumor which has been current in the village that lack of funds would make necessary closing of the school pending holding of a school meeting to be held on October 21.

Petry stated that the rumor was unfounded and that there were sufficient funds in the bank to meet school cost operation until school taxes are collected. He also branded as untrue a report that the salaries of teachers in the school would be cut and that there was a plan under consideration to abandon the kindergarten class.

Petry said the standard of education in Hurley was exceptionally high and not only was there no plan to reduce salaries but an increase in salaries was contemplated. The kindergarten will definitely be continued, he said.

At a recent school meeting held for election of officers and adoption of the budget, certain irregularities were held by the Commissioner of Education to be sufficient to void the election and adoption of the budget and a meeting has been called for October 21 to transact the business which was voided by the order of the commissioner.

field stands, for the first hit of game, Robinson't first World Series home run, and it put Dodgers in front, 1-0.

Campanella was cut down stealing, Berra to Martin.

Pafko bounced out, McDougald to Collins.

Hodges accidentally tapped one-one pitch down first baseline and was an easy out, Reynolds to Collins.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Yankees

McDougald lined a home run into the lower left field stands, the ball barely clearing railing. Pafko, who had an unsuccessful leap for ball, argued a fan had reached over below the railing to interfere, but Umpire Boggess ruled the ball had cleared railing. That tied score at 1-1.

Martin went down swinging to become Black's first strikeout victim.

Reynolds also struckout, swinging.

Bauer was called out on strikes.

One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Dodgers

Furillo fouled to Berra.

Black struck out on three pitches.

Cox walked on four pitches.

Cox went out stealing, Berra to Rizzuto.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Talk Not Libelous

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—It is not slanderous in itself to call someone a Communist, says a Brooklyn State Supreme Court justice, although it is libelous to do so in writing and without grounds. Justice Maximilian Moss delivered this opinion yesterday in dismissing a $20,000 damage suit brought by an AFL organizer and his wife against a neighbor. Saying he was taking "judicial notice" of the cold war, Moss asserted that "our safety is best served by an exposure of Communists and communism." He said it therefore was better "to allow free play of our emotions in dealing with persons whom we believe to be Communists rather than seal the lips of people who might be frightened into silence and suppression lest use of the word 'Communist' should per se (in itself) force upon them costly litigation." The action was brought by David Keefe, organizer for the AFL Office Employes International Union, and his wife, Mary, against Mrs. Helen O'Brien.

Says They Reneged

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—John Cashmore, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, says Liberal party leaders promised to support him if he were nominated, and then reneged. Cashmore, now Brooklyn borough president, says the Liberal leaders "pulled the rug out" from under him despite pleas by Mutual Security Director Averell Harriman, whom the Liberals first had supported.

Reds Work College Grads

Hong Kong (AP) — College graduates in Red China this year need give no thought to their future—Communist boss Mao Tze-Tung and his henchmen will take care of that. Under government edict, graduates in science and technology courses can look forward to assignments to specific work. Some of this will be on railroad and road projects in the far off deserts and mountains of Sinkiang and high Tibet. Medical school graduates can be sure of one thing—they will not go into private practice. They will be needed for "factories, mines, epidemic prevention work and public hospitals for government functionaries," says the edict.

Denial About Bombs

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force today denied that allied fighter-bombers had dropped bombs on Greek troops atop Big Nori Hill in western Korea Sunday. Four F-80 Shooting Star jets swooped down on the hill as the Greeks braced to meet a counter-attack by Chinese Reds. The U. S. 8th Army communique Sunday night said the four dropped bombs that landed where the Greeks were fighting. The Greeks withdrew from Big Nori. A liaison officer with them said U. S. bombs killed one officer and four enlisted men. The air force announcement today said an investigation showed "no bombs fell on friendly positions" and the fighter-bombers "did not fire their guns."

Slate of Voters Tests Announced For High School

Literacy tests for new voters are scheduled at Kingston High School on the days specified for registration in this city.

According to Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, the tests will be held as follows:

Friday, October 3, and Saturday, Oct. 4 between 10 a. m. and 10 p. m.

Friday, October 10, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Saturday, October 11 from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

During school hours on Friday, the tests will be held in Room 156, which is marked by a sign.

After school and in the evenings and on Saturdays they will be given inside the front entrance to the school.

The tests are held under direction of the New York State Board of Regents in preparation for the election to be held November 4.

These tests are for "new voters"; those who are voting in New York for the first time. Those eligible to take the tests are both foreign and native-born persons who are entitled to vote in New York state for the first time.

Certificates of literacy are issued to "new voters" as follows:

To applicants whose credentials show that they have successfully completed the work prescribed for the sixth grade of the public day schools of the state.

To applicants whose credentials show that they have completed a course in reading and writing English equivalent to that required of sixth grade pupils in the public elementary schools of the state.

To all applicants who have passed an examination or test authorized by the commissioner. This test will be known as the New York State Regents literacy test.

To applicants who because of physical disability are unable to pass the New York State Regents literacy tests but who can satisfy the examiner that they could pass the test if it were not for such disability. (Applicants in this group should bring a certificate from an authority qualified to judge the nature and extent of the disability.)

The following persons are classed as "new voters" and must present evidence of literacy to the election inspectors:

All men and women born in the United States who became qualified to vote in New York state.

All men and women of foreign birth who became qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922.

All persons who have previously voted in one or more other states, but who become qualified to vote in New York state for the first time after January 1, 1922.

All "new voters" must present to the election inspectors either a certificate of literacy issued under the regulations of the Regents through the school authorities or a diploma from the eighth grade of an elementary school or from a higher school where English has been the language of instruction.

Water Tower Explodes

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A water tower, atop a 10-story Manhattan building, exploded today, sending a barrage of bricks, mortar and tons of water tumbling into the busy street below. At least two persons—a newstand operator and a taxi driver—were injured by flying missiles. Scores of women shoppers were drenched by the cascading sea of 15,000 gallons of water. Deputy Fire Chief John J. Waldron said the tank blowout apparently was caused by a defective compressor. The building is owned and occupied by the Canadian Fur Corporation.

Churchill Visits Queen

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill flew to Balmoral, Scotland, today for a two day visit with Queen Elizabeth II. Churchill, recently returned from a continental holiday, will give the Queen a fill-in on state affairs.

WHY TAKE A BEATING FROM YOUR HEATING?

Why burn up your good dollars in a wasteful, pocket-picking furnace? Why settle for day after day of half way comfort—dirt and dust and furnace-tending? Why suffer through one more miserable winter when you can have wonderfully satisfying warmth all through the house—and save money, too?

It's so easy to get the kind of comfort you've always wanted. Good, balanced heat. Heat that comes up fast, and doesn't keep you shaking and shivering in the morning. Just ask us about new General Electric quick-comfort Oil Heating.

Folks say it actually pays for itself in fuel savings. It takes up much less room than old furnaces. You get heat up in 5 to 7 minutes in the morning—to all rooms—smooth, clean warmth that makes even your hard-to-heat rooms comfortable.

Let us make a free comfort survey of your home. We'll let you know frankly and honestly whether a new G-E is the answer to your comfort problems. But do it now, before the cold weather sets in!

City Problems Are Discusssed by CC At Open Meeting

Numerous community problems were proposed for the consideration of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce at the open membership meeting Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Among the problems proposed and discussed in some detail were: Off-street parking in business areas to protect and enhance taxable property values, industrial expansion, the need for revisions in the zoning law, traffic ordinance enforcement, the need for progress in community planning, the need for a building code, connecting links with the Thruway, the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge and the need for two-hour parking at meters removed from the business streets.

Lawrence J. MacAvery, president of the chamber presided and outlined in some detail the intensive work being done in connection with industrial expansion. Complete data regarding Kingston has been provided to several industrial prospects and that everything possible is being done to attract new industries. In the discussion which followed it was brought out that the attitude of our citizens, of the community itself, is a very important factor in industrial expansion. This includes the expansion of established plants by employing more than one shift, physical plant expansion or an entirely new industry.

Tells About Ithaca

Clifford A. Allanson, of Ithaca, executive manager of the New York State Council of Retail Merchants was present as a guest of Director Henry Singer. Allanson has had many years of experience as a director and president of the Ithaca Chamber of Commerce. He was asked to comment on the meeting and gave a very interesting and informative talk on how some of the community problems were handled.

It was suggester that specific topics be listed for consideration at future meetings and that committee chairmen or outside speakers be brought in to present the subjects of current interest.

Hurley School Open, Petry Says

William C. Petry, president of the Board of Education of the Old Hurley village school district, today denied the rumor which has been current in the village that lack of funds would make necessary closing of the school pending holding of a school meeting to be held on October 21.

Petry stated that the rumor was unfounded and that there were sufficient funds in the bank to meet school cost operation until school taxes are collected. He also branded as untrue a report that the salaries of teachers in the school would be cut and that there was a plan under consideration to abandon the kindergarten class.

Petry said the standard of education in Hurley was exceptionally high and not only was there no plan to reduce salaries but an increase in salaries was contemplated. The kindergarten will definitely be continued, he said.

At a recent school meeting held for election of officers and adoption of the budget, certain irregularities were held by the Commissioner of Education to be sufficient to void the election and adoption of the budget and a meeting has been called for October 21 to transact the business which was voided by the order of the commissioner.

field stands, for the first hit of game, Robinson't first World Series home run, and it put Dodgers in front, 1-0.

Campanella was cut down stealing, Berra to Martin.

Pafko bounced out, McDougald to Collins.

Hodges accidentally tapped one-one pitch down first baseline and was an easy out, Reynolds to Collins.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Yankees

McDougald lined a home run into the lower left field stands, the ball barely clearing railing. Pafko, who had an unsuccessful leap for ball, argued a fan had reached over below the railing to interfere, but Umpire Boggess ruled the ball had cleared railing. That tied score at 1-1.

Martin went down swinging to become Black's first strikeout victim.

Reynolds also struckout, swinging.

Bauer was called out on strikes.

One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Dodgers

Furillo fouled to Berra.

Black struck out on three pitches.

Cox walked on four pitches.

Cox went out stealing, Berra to Rizzuto.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Talk Not Libelous

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—It is not slanderous in itself to call someone a Communist, says a Brooklyn State Supreme Court justice, although it is libelous to do so in writing and without grounds. Justice Maximilian Moss delivered this opinion yesterday in dismissing a $20,000 damage suit brought by an AFL organizer and his wife against a neighbor. Saying he was taking "judicial notice" of the cold war, Moss asserted that "our safety is best served by an exposure of Communists and communism." He said it therefore was better "to allow free play of our emotions in dealing with persons whom we believe to be Communists rather than seal the lips of people who might be frightened into silence and suppression lest use of the word 'Communist' should per se (in itself) force upon them costly litigation." The action was brought by David Keefe, organizer for the AFL Office Employes International Union, and his wife, Mary, against Mrs. Helen O'Brien.

Says They Reneged

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—John Cashmore, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, says Liberal party leaders promised to support him if he were nominated, and then reneged. Cashmore, now Brooklyn borough president, says the Liberal leaders "pulled the rug out" from under him despite pleas by Mutual Security Director Averell Harriman, whom the Liberals first had supported.

Reds Work College Grads

Hong Kong (AP) — College graduates in Red China this year need give no thought to their future—Communist boss Mao Tze-Tung and his henchmen will take care of that. Under government edict, graduates in science and technology courses can look forward to assignments to specific work. Some of this will be on railroad and road projects in the far off deserts and mountains of Sinkiang and high Tibet. Medical school graduates can be sure of one thing—they will not go into private practice. They will be needed for "factories, mines, epidemic prevention work and public hospitals for government functionaries," says the edict.

Denial About Bombs

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force today denied that allied fighter-bombers had dropped bombs on Greek troops atop Big Nori Hill in western Korea Sunday. Four F-80 Shooting Star jets swooped down on the hill as the Greeks braced to meet a counter-attack by Chinese Reds. The U. S. 8th Army communique Sunday night said the four dropped bombs that landed where the Greeks were fighting. The Greeks withdrew from Big Nori. A liaison officer with them said U. S. bombs killed one officer and four enlisted men. The air force announcement today said an investigation showed "no bombs fell on friendly positions" and the fighter-bombers "did not fire their guns."

Slate of Voters Tests Announced For High School

Literacy tests for new voters are scheduled at Kingston High School on the days specified for registration in this city.

According to Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, the tests will be held as follows:

Friday, October 3, and Saturday, Oct. 4 between 10 a. m. and 10 p. m.

Friday, October 10, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Saturday, October 11 from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

During school hours on Friday, the tests will be held in Room 156, which is marked by a sign.

After school and in the evenings and on Saturdays they will be given inside the front entrance to the school.

The tests are held under direction of the New York State Board of Regents in preparation for the election to be held November 4.

These tests are for "new voters"; those who are voting in New York for the first time. Those eligible to take the tests are both foreign and native-born persons who are entitled to vote in New York state for the first time.

Certificates of literacy are issued to "new voters" as follows:

To applicants whose credentials show that they have successfully completed the work prescribed for the sixth grade of the public day schools of the state.

To applicants whose credentials show that they have completed a course in reading and writing English equivalent to that required of sixth grade pupils in the public elementary schools of the state.

To all applicants who have passed an examination or test authorized by the commissioner. This test will be known as the New York State Regents literacy test.

To applicants who because of physical disability are unable to pass the New York State Regents literacy tests but who can satisfy the examiner that they could pass the test if it were not for such disability. (Applicants in this group should bring a certificate from an authority qualified to judge the nature and extent of the disability.)

The following persons are classed as "new voters" and must present evidence of literacy to the election inspectors:

All men and women born in the United States who became qualified to vote in New York state.

All men and women of foreign birth who became qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922.

All persons who have previously voted in one or more other states, but who become qualified to vote in New York state for the first time after January 1, 1922.

All "new voters" must present to the election inspectors either a certificate of literacy issued under the regulations of the Regents through the school authorities or a diploma from the eighth grade of an elementary school or from a higher school where English has been the language of instruction.

Water Tower Explodes

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A water tower, atop a 10-story Manhattan building, exploded today, sending a barrage of bricks, mortar and tons of water tumbling into the busy street below. At least two persons—a newstand operator and a taxi driver—were injured by flying missiles. Scores of women shoppers were drenched by the cascading sea of 15,000 gallons of water. Deputy Fire Chief John J. Waldron said the tank blowout apparently was caused by a defective compressor. The building is owned and occupied by the Canadian Fur Corporation.

Churchill Visits Queen

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill flew to Balmoral, Scotland, today for a two day visit with Queen Elizabeth II. Churchill, recently returned from a continental holiday, will give the Queen a fill-in on state affairs.

WHY TAKE A BEATING FROM YOUR HEATING?

Why burn up your good dollars in a wasteful, pocket-picking furnace? Why settle for day after day of half way comfort—dirt and dust and furnace-tending? Why suffer through one more miserable winter when you can have wonderfully satisfying warmth all through the house—and save money, too?

It's so easy to get the kind of comfort you've always wanted. Good, balanced heat. Heat that comes up fast, and doesn't keep you shaking and shivering in the morning. Just ask us about new General Electric quick-comfort Oil Heating.

Folks say it actually pays for itself in fuel savings. It takes up much less room than old furnaces. You get heat up in 5 to 7 minutes in the morning—to all rooms—smooth, clean warmth that makes even your hard-to-heat rooms comfortable.

Let us make a free comfort survey of your home. We'll let you know frankly and honestly whether a new G-E is the answer to your comfort problems. But do it now, before the cold weather sets in!

City Problems Are Discusssed by CC At Open Meeting

Numerous community problems were proposed for the consideration of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce at the open membership meeting Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Among the problems proposed and discussed in some detail were: Off-street parking in business areas to protect and enhance taxable property values, industrial expansion, the need for revisions in the zoning law, traffic ordinance enforcement, the need for progress in community planning, the need for a building code, connecting links with the Thruway, the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge and the need for two-hour parking at meters removed from the business streets.

Lawrence J. MacAvery, president of the chamber presided and outlined in some detail the intensive work being done in connection with industrial expansion. Complete data regarding Kingston has been provided to several industrial prospects and that everything possible is being done to attract new industries. In the discussion which followed it was brought out that the attitude of our citizens, of the community itself, is a very important factor in industrial expansion. This includes the expansion of established plants by employing more than one shift, physical plant expansion or an entirely new industry.

Tells About Ithaca

Clifford A. Allanson, of Ithaca, executive manager of the New York State Council of Retail Merchants was present as a guest of Director Henry Singer. Allanson has had many years of experience as a director and president of the Ithaca Chamber of Commerce. He was asked to comment on the meeting and gave a very interesting and informative talk on how some of the community problems were handled.

It was suggester that specific topics be listed for consideration at future meetings and that committee chairmen or outside speakers be brought in to present the subjects of current interest.

Ike Says GOP Gets

that he ended once and for all the old American belief in isolationism."

Eisenhower charged that Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson had failed to give Vandenberg and the Republican party credit for the part they played in a bipartisan foreign policy.

Is Being Crushed

"What must be said in truth," he said, "is that * * * the bipartisan approach to which Sen. Vandenberg was dedicated is being crushed by the abuse to which the party in power and its leaders are subjecting it.

"* * * It is not possible to have continuing cooperation on the administration basis of heads they win and tails the Republicans lose. That is the way bipartisanship works today. The Democrats claim all the credit for its good fruits and blame the Republicans for its bad fruits."

Eisenhower said the Republican Party platform gives "complete support and endorsement" to foreign policies which have been worked out on a bipartisan basis. He added: "It attacks and criticizes only where there has been no such cooperation, as in relations to the middle east, Africa, and South America and China and Korea."

Big Carolina Greeting

On his journey west, Eisenhower carried with him the warm memory of the rousing welcome given to him yesterday in Columbia, S. C. where 50,000 persons roared "We want Ike." They cheered his attacks on President Truman and the Democratic presidential nominee.

On the steps of the historic old South Carolina state house, Eisenhower was introduced by Gov. James F. Byrnes—once a friend of President Truman and one-time secretary of state in the Truman cabinet.

A lifelong Democrat Byrnes called for the people to put their country above a party label and to elect Eisenhower as the man who could clean up "the mess in Washington" and prevent a third world war.

Eisenhower gave a hint, before leaving Columbia, that he is ready to launch an attack on Communists-in-government at almost any time.

On Smith Statement

Eisenhower had been pressed for comment on a statement by Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of the super secret Central Intelligence Agency, that he believed Communists had infiltrated even into his organization. Later, Smith said he knew of no Communists in the organization—but had to assume enemy agents had infiltrated into it.

Eisenhower talked to Smith yesterday about his statement—given Monday during a deposition hearing before a federal judge in Washington.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, said Eisenhower told Smith—his war-time chief of staff—that he did not intend to attack either Smith or the CIA. But Hagerty said Eisenhower did not mean he would not speak out against subversives in government positions.

In Columbia, he openly bid for the people's support against Stevenson.

Met at Airfield

Byrnes — accompanied by his wife—met Eisenhower at the airfield on his arrival from New York and greeted him warmly. They rode together to the state house, where police estimated 50,000 persons were waiting to hear Eisenhower speak.

The crowd broke into a roar when Eisenhower and Byrnes stepped from the state house and walked to the platform together.

Byrnes ended his introduction by saying: "If we want to avoid a third world war, to bring an end to the war in Korea and bring an end to corruption in Washington, we can best do it by electing as President of the United States the man I present to you, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Slapping back at President Truman—who had called him a "front man" for special interests Eisenhower said the Democratic administration "may go down in history as the scandal-a-day administration."

"As bad or worse than the scandals," he added, "is the attitude of those in high office who—faced with these revelations—have, too often, first denied them, then condoned them and, when public pressure became too great, reluctantly has undertaken to do something about them.

Touches Civil Rights

Eisenhower touched on the controversial civil rights issue by saying: "I have pledged the people of our country that, if elected, I will support the constitution of the United States—the whole of it . . ." He was interrupted at this point by cheers.

Then he added: "And that means that I will support and seek to strengthen and extend to every American every right that that constitution guarantees.

"Equality of opportunity was part of the vision of the men who founded our nation. It is a principle deeply imbedded in our religious faith. And neither at home nor in the eyes of the world can America risk the weakness which inevitably results when any group of our people are ranked—politically or economically—as second-class citizens." There was only a spatter of applause for this statement.

Eisenhower scored the administration for what he said was a lack of any program for winning the war in Korea. He needled the Democrats, too, about high prices, high taxes, and the cheaper purchasing power of the dollar.

Wintry Heat

Vegetables are grown outdoors throughout the cold of winter near Redhill, Worcestershire, England. A mine fire burning in the worked-out galleries beneath the land of the farmers accounts for the phenomenon.

There are about 2,700 earthquakes per day on earth, says the National Geographic Society.

Blames Democrats For Men Facing Stolen U. S. Arms

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce says American soldiers in Korea are "facing weapons developed for our use, and stolen by the Communists who have infiltrated into our government."

The Republican one-time congresswoman from Connecticut adds that Reds "have been growing and thriving in the organism of the Democratic Party for the last 20 years."

Mrs. Luce conducted a 30-minute program last night on the radio and television networks of the National Broadcasting Company. The program was sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

With "Communist subversion within the government" as its theme, the program was one of the first to utilize popular television program techniques.

Although carried by radio, Mrs. Luce used charts and films to illustrate her speech. Many times the program switched to newsreel shots of congressional hearings, and the words of the witnesses were picked up. These included J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director; Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer and former State Department official, and Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth T. Bentley, former Communists.

Must Root Out Traitors

Mrs. Luce said the safety of every American "depends on rooting out the traitors," and she added that the Republican national candidates know this.

She quoted the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, as saying of anti-Communist activities, "let's not burn down the barn to catch the rats."

"There we agree with him," she said. "In the effort to root communism out of our government we must sacrifice none of our constitutional liberties. But still the stubborn fact remains, we must get rid of the rats. . . .

"On the record, the administration has no plan for rat catching, none whatever. . . ."

Mrs. Luce said Stevenson joined the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's legal staff in the early 1930's and that it was then infested with Communists.

Didn't Know Then

She added that "we merely note the fact that Mr. Stevenson did not then recognize them for what he calls them now—'our mortal enemies.'"

Her prepared text contained this passage which Mrs. Luce did not mention in her radio-TV address:

"Mr. Stevenson is not a Communist. Indeed he feels they are 'mortal enemies.' But he defended a mortal enemy, Hiss, during his trial."

Stevenson made a deposition during the first Hiss trial in which he said he understood Hiss' reputation for honest and veracity was good. The Illinois governor later said he felt it the duty of every citizen to offer whatever information he possessed to a court of law when called upon.

No explanation of the deletion by Mrs. Luce was made.

Reds in All Agencies

The GOP national committee in Washington scheduled Mrs. Luce's talk after the testimony by Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, on Monday that he assumed Communists have infiltrated every American security agency, including his own.

Smith gave his testimony in a legal proceeding in connection with the two million dollar libel-slander suit filed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) against Sen. Benton (D-Conn.)

Mrs. Luce did not mention the Smith testimony.

Sparkman Tours State

En Route With Sparkman, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. Senator John J. Sparkman swung into strong GOP areas of central and northern New York today, aiming political haymakers at Eisenhower, Taft and McCarthy. The Democratic vice-presidential candidate kept hammering at his party's campaign theme that the GOP was opposed to progress. He repeatedly urged his listeners to remember the depression of the 1930's, and pointed out that Republicans controlled the government in the early years of that period. The Alabama senator, the first national campaigner to invade the Empire State this year, attacked GOP Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin last night at Ithaca. He charged that "McCarthyism" was "a threat even worse than communism." Today Sparkman's motorcade was to roll into Auburn, Fulton, Oswego, Pulaski, Watertown and Utica. The three-day swing ends tomorrow night in Albany.

Former Editor and Musician Are Wed

Rose Marie Misasi, Paul R. Markle Are Wed in Bride's Home

The marriage of Miss Rose Marie Misasi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Misasi, 81 West Chester street, to Paul Robert Markle, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Urban T. Kemble, Lucas avenue extension, took place at 2 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 27, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. David Gaise, pastor, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer officiated. A reception for 100 guests was held at Broglio's in West Park.

White chrysanthemums were used to decorate the house.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white gown fashioned with a Chantilly hip length bodice over a princess styled faille gown, and off-the-shoulder neckline with illusion yoke. Her fingertip length veil of silk tulle was attached to a matching faille and lace headpiece. She carried white orchids on a prayer book.

Miss Edna Link, 1 Bank street, New York, was the maid-of-honor. Her pale red taffeta gown was styled with a strapless bodice and matching three-quarter length sleeve, fitted jacket. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations.

Walter Lewis, 1127 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, Mass., was best man.

The couple left for a trip. For traveling, the bride was attired in a grey suit with raspberry red and grey accessories, and a white orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Markle will reside in Boston, Mass.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '46, Pratt Institute, class of '49, and was formerly associated as needlecraft editor with the Reader Mail Order Company in New York.

The bridegroom was graduated from Kingston High School, attended the Phil Saltman School of Music for two years, and completed courses at the University of Maryland. He served for five and one-half years with the U. S. Navy and is attending the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Cutler Resigns As SPCA President

During a special meeting of the directors of the Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Tuesday night at the Ulster county court house Mrs. Herbert Cutler resigned as president and director.

Mrs. Cutler said this morning that "due to circumstances beyond her control, she had no other alternative than to tender her resignation."

She pointed out, however, that she is not resigning from the organization as a member as she has a 25-year paid up membership. In making this point clear, she added that there is a definite need for such an organization in Ulster county.

Former Editor and Musician Are Wed

Rose Marie Misasi, Paul R. Markle Are Wed in Bride's Home

The marriage of Miss Rose Marie Misasi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Misasi, 81 West Chester street, to Paul Robert Markle, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Urban T. Kemble, Lucas avenue extension, took place at 2 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 27, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. David Gaise, pastor, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer officiated. A reception for 100 guests was held at Broglio's in West Park.

White chrysanthemums were used to decorate the house.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white gown fashioned with a Chantilly hip length bodice over a princess styled faille gown, and off-the-shoulder neckline with illusion yoke. Her fingertip length veil of silk tulle was attached to a matching faille and lace headpiece. She carried white orchids on a prayer book.

Miss Edna Link, 1 Bank street, New York, was the maid-of-honor. Her pale red taffeta gown was styled with a strapless bodice and matching three-quarter length sleeve, fitted jacket. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations.

Walter Lewis, 1127 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, Mass., was best man.

The couple left for a trip. For traveling, the bride was attired in a grey suit with raspberry red and grey accessories, and a white orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Markle will reside in Boston, Mass.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '46, Pratt Institute, class of '49, and was formerly associated as needlecraft editor with the Reader Mail Order Company in New York.

The bridegroom was graduated from Kingston High School, attended the Phil Saltman School of Music for two years, and completed courses at the University of Maryland. He served for five and one-half years with the U. S. Navy and is attending the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Mass.

Bard Professor Will Address School 5 Group October 2

HOWARD P. SMITH

Howard P. Smith, assistant professor of psychology, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, will be the featured speaker at the annual Honor All Fathers' Night to be held by the Parents and Teachers Organization of School 5, Thursday at 7:45 p. m.

This event paying tribute to all fathers within the organization has become an annual custom and opens the season's calendar of educational and social affairs. The meeting is open to all parents, teachers, and interested persons.

Mr. Smith will present the topic, Social Development of Children, emphasizing school adjustment, relations with playmates, and relations with brothers and sisters. Attention will be focussed upon the elementary school child.

Mr. Smith, as the father of two small sons, will present a practical viewpoint, enriched by his wide experience as an educator. Graduating from Amherst College, he continued his studies at Harvard University, receiving his master's degree there in 1946, followed by further graduate study. He also entered the armed forces serving in Africa and Italy, during World War 2. Following the war, other activities included service as a steel worker for the Columbia Steel Company; personnel manager, Mechanical Foundries Division, Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation; Research and Teaching Fellow in Social Relations, Harvard University.

Recently Mr. Smith affiliated with the faculty of Bard College as assistant professor of Psychology. He has assisted with the reorganization of the Annandale Nursery School and serves as its present director. Along with his many activities, he still finds time to devote to the completion work of his thesis (at Harvard University) which centers around a study of attitude changes resulting from experiences in Europe.

An informal reception honoring fathers and guests will follow the evening's program. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, president, will preside.

About 37 new kinds of birds have appeared in Iceland since 1938.

Esther E. Ritvanen Becomes Bride of John H. Schroeder

Miss Esther E. Ritvanen of Rifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ritvanen, Rymattyla, Finland, became the bride of John H. Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Schroeder, 46 Levan street, at 3 p. m., Saturday, Sept. 27, in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Austin V. Carey, chaplain of the Benedictine Hospital, performed the ceremony. A reception for 95 guests was held at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

The church altar and pews were decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Elis Ritvanen, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace styled with an illusion neckline, fitted bodice, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel length train. Her fingertip length veil of tulle was attached to a cap-style headpiece. She carried white roses.

Miss Dorothy Ann Wilson, 248 Elmendorf street, was maid-of-honor. She was attired in a robin egg blue marquisette gown and matching pearl decorated headpiece. She carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Robert Schroeder was his brother's best man. The ushers were James Johnson of Sawkill and William Welhaf, 31 Clinton avenue.

Upon their return from a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the couple will live in Boston, Mass. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit with navy and white accessories.

Mrs. Schroeder was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '49, and the Union University School of Nursing in Albany, class of '52.

Mr. Shroeder was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '49, the Simmons School of Mortuary Science in Syracuse, class of '51. He enlisted in the U. S. Navy in August, 1951, and is stationed at Chelsea Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Community Concert Group Announces Opening Program

The Community Concert Association has announced the program for tonight's opening concert of the season when Eleanor Steber, leading soprano of the Metropolitan, will be presented at 8:30, in the Kingston High School auditorium. James Quillian will be at the piano.

The Program:

A Schubert Group—Recitative and aria written to a fragment of Didone; Die Forelle; Im Abendroth; Das Lied im Grunen; Rastlose Liebe. Also, Elsa's Traum, from Lohengrin by Wagner.

Le Balcon by DeBussy, Mon amour est bon a dire, Thomson; and Three Folk Songs from the Auvergne, Passo pel prat; Brezairola, and Malurous qu'o uno fenno, arranged by Canteloube.

Following the intermission, Miss Steber will present La Pomessa by Rossini, Passeggiata, Pizzetti, and an aria, Un bel di vedremo from Madama Butterfly by Puccini.

The program will be concluded with a group of five selections, Hello, Hello from Menotti's The Telephone; Velvet Shoes, Thompson; Nuvoletta, Barber; Summer the Lovely, Wilda; and Czardas from Die Fledermaus, Straus.

Personal Notes

Bard Professor Will Address School 5 Group October 2

HOWARD P. SMITH

Howard P. Smith, assistant professor of psychology, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, will be the featured speaker at the annual Honor All Fathers' Night to be held by the Parents and Teachers Organization of School 5, Thursday at 7:45 p. m.

This event paying tribute to all fathers within the organization has become an annual custom and opens the season's calendar of educational and social affairs. The meeting is open to all parents, teachers, and interested persons.

Mr. Smith will present the topic, Social Development of Children, emphasizing school adjustment, relations with playmates, and relations with brothers and sisters. Attention will be focussed upon the elementary school child.

Mr. Smith, as the father of two small sons, will present a practical viewpoint, enriched by his wide experience as an educator. Graduating from Amherst College, he continued his studies at Harvard University, receiving his master's degree there in 1946, followed by further graduate study. He also entered the armed forces serving in Africa and Italy, during World War 2. Following the war, other activities included service as a steel worker for the Columbia Steel Company; personnel manager, Mechanical Foundries Division, Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation; Research and Teaching Fellow in Social Relations, Harvard University.

Recently Mr. Smith affiliated with the faculty of Bard College as assistant professor of Psychology. He has assisted with the reorganization of the Annandale Nursery School and serves as its present director. Along with his many activities, he still finds time to devote to the completion work of his thesis (at Harvard University) which centers around a study of attitude changes resulting from experiences in Europe.

An informal reception honoring fathers and guests will follow the evening's program. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, president, will preside.

Esther E. Ritvanen Becomes Bride of John H. Schroeder

Miss Esther E. Ritvanen of Rifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ritvanen, Rymattyla, Finland, became the bride of John H. Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Schroeder, 46 Levan street, at 3 p. m., Saturday, Sept. 27, in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Austin V. Carey, chaplain of the Benedictine Hospital, performed the ceremony. A reception for 95 guests was held at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

The church altar and pews were decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Elis Ritvanen, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace styled with an illusion neckline, fitted bodice, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel length train. Her fingertip length veil of tulle was attached to a cap-style headpiece. She carried white roses.

Miss Dorothy Ann Wilson, 248 Elmendorf street, was maid-of-honor. She was attired in a robin egg blue marquisette gown and matching pearl decorated headpiece. She carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Robert Schroeder was his brother's best man. The ushers were James Johnson of Sawkill and William Welhaf, 31 Clinton avenue.

Upon their return from a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the couple will live in Boston, Mass. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit with navy and white accessories.

Mrs. Schroeder was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '49, and the Union University School of Nursing in Albany, class of '52.

Mr. Shroeder was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '49, the Simmons School of Mortuary Science in Syracuse, class of '51. He enlisted in the U. S. Navy in August, 1951, and is stationed at Chelsea Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Maroon Plays Poughkeepsie Here Saturday

First returns from the DUSO League football fronts are due this weekend by nightfall Saturday, conference fans should have a fair line on championship hopes of at least four of the schools.

Sam Kalloch leads the resurgent Poughkeepsie Blues into municipal stadium for a daylight clash with Kingston Saturday afternoon for a battle that is rated a tossup.

The Saturday afternoon game is a departure from the traditional September-November night schedule at municipal stadium, but the DUSO League never has been able to budge Coach Kalloch from his stand against night football. For years, the portly Bridge City mentor has been an uncompromising foe of after-dark scholastic athletics.

Newburgh Free Academy, with a powerful one-two backfield punch in Bobby Spreer (ever hear the name?) and Frank Stellitano, is expected to devour Middletown Friday night on the Middie gridiron.

Port Jervis Idle

Port Jervis fans, gathered at the wailing wall because of alleged weak ends and dearth of experienced players, will have to wait another week before they see the Red and Black in DUSO action.

Newburgh is rolling on from the momentum of last year's spectacular accomplishments and with the best material in the league rates the championship halo until somebody comes along to knock it off.

The Stellitano-Spreer combination appears to be the toughest in the area.

Blues In Rally

The Kingston-Poughkeepsie clash is something else again. At the start of the season Coach Kalloch used the crying towel with such frequency that Frank Leahy's copyright was in jeopardy.

Poughkeepsie dropped its opener to Beacon High, an ignominious gataway in the eyes of old Blues, but a closer inspection of the game revealed Beacon as considerably above its average in football this season.

Kalloch then turned loose two standout backs against the Trinity-Pawling combination and scored a 26-0 triumph. Not DUSO League calibre, you say, but the Blues came up with two backfield operators who should be able to move against any type of opposition.

The biggest Poughkeepsie threat is senior halfback Leo Elwell, who romped 35 and 49 yards for TD's against Trinity-Pawling. A swivel-hipped ball carrier he will be the object of considerable Kingston concern Saturday. Against T1P he ran in a sensational style that recalled Muzzy Wright and Leroy "Eggie" Johnson of last year's squad.

Dom Pacio, a hard driving fullback, turned in a great performance against T-P. He plunged for one touchdown and was effective in scoring territory all afternoon.

Defense May Be Weak

If there is one chink in the Poughkeepsie armor it must be in the defense. Trinity-Pawling piled up 169 yards from scrimmage. The Poughkeepsie defense stiffened, however, inside the 20 yard line.

Kingston High emerged from the bruising battle at Highland in good physical condition, Coach Bill Burke said today and all the regulars will be available for Saturday's renewal of the ancient series.

The Maroon was obviously superior over Highland by a greater margin than the final score indicated. But Burke, leading 19-0, had a good chance to give his sophomores and untested junior reserves a real workout. The fact that Kingston used 27 players without any apparent dimunition of power indicated a high all-round potential for the 1952 season.

Burke said he would start Saturday's game with the "Big Four" backfield of Gene Massa, Orville Giles, Pat Manfro and Roger Billings. The first string line is intact and the pass-catching exploits of Fred Jackson in one touchdown march against Highland hints more activity for him against Poughkeepsie.

Reynolds and Black Confident on Eve of World Series; Steve O'Neill Believes Dodgers Have Chance to Win

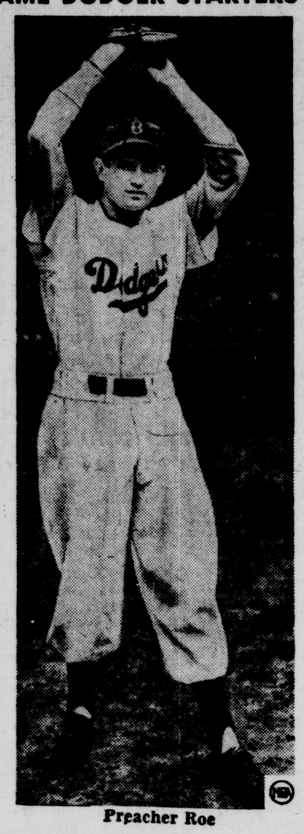
Carl Erskine



Preacher Roe

Brooklyn, Oct. 1 (AP)—Last minute quotes from the opposing pitchers in the opener of the World Series today at Ebbets Field:

Joe Black, Brooklyn—"The way I feel right now it's just another ball game. The Yankees don't awe me at all. After watching them work out, I realized they were just another ball club. They're a good ball club, but the Dodgers seem to be a pretty good club, too."

Allie Reynolds, New York — "I feel okey. I know that the series starts today. I believe we're up for the game. I know I am, and that's about it."

Outfielders Carl Furillo of the Brooks and Gene Woodling of the Yankees, each of whom is nursing a slight injury, are not worrying. Furillo's left hand is taped. "The only time I feel my pain is when I swing at one and miss it," said Carl. "But the bandage helps."

Woodling's groin injury seems to have healed and he said he felt "fine" when he lifted his bat.

Commissioner Ford Frick laid down a couple of rules to keep the games going at a brisk pace:

1. No more than four men to gather around the pitchers' mound when the hurler is in distress.

2. The batter must run toward first base immediately after a dropped third strike. If he doesn't he's out.

The lobby of the Towers Hotel, Brooklyn's series headquarters, is jammed with baseball people. Saddest ones are the old timers hoping to catch on with some club.

Steve O'Neill, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and ex-chief of the Cleveland Indians, should be an authority on the Dodgers and Yanks, having tried to beat both of them.

"These are two remarkably strong opponents," he said. "If the Dodgers get a well-pitched game they can beat the Yanks. Brooklyn has a full line-up of players who can run and hit the long ball, and they are likely to win if they get the pitching."

O'Neill was in the minority, though. Most of the baseball people milling around thought the New Yorkers would pulverize the Dodger pitching staff.

Latest line had the odds on the Yanks to take the series 8-9. Translated to a man to man betting a Yank supporter has to give 9-5 while a Dodger fan can get 8-5. Yanks favored to take first and second games at 6-7.

Managers Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers and Casey Stengel of the Yankees are just about exhausted from interviews. They've said about all they can and now are resorting to wisecracks.

Said Dressen in reply to a question as to whether he was superstitious of winning the first game:

"Nope. You know the old gag—if you win the first one, they can't win them all."

Said Stengel while pondering his batting order:

"Everybody on the club has served as leadoff man except Yogi Berra, and maybe we'll get to him before this thing is over."

Ralph Kiner on Block

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ralph Kiner, seven-time home run king of the National League, has been placed on the market to the highest bidder, the Associated Press learned today.

It also was learned that the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves had shown interest in the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger but were balking at the "skyscraping" figure put on Kiner by Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

"Sure, we're interested in Kiner," a Braves official said. "Why shouldn't we be? We're not the only club anxious to get him, either."

A Cub official said practically the same thing.

We'd like to have Kiner," the Chicago representative confessed. "He always hit well in Wrigley Field. We're willing to go pretty high for him, too. But from what I've heard, Rickey wants too much."

Neither official wished to be identified.

Pool Thinks Rams Can Still Win

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (AP)—J. Hampton Pool, named to succeed Jumbo Joe Stydahar as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, says he has the personnel to win another championship.

"I'm not saying we'll win it, mind you," Pool hastened to explain, "but we do have the men who can do it."

Pool is the fifth pilot of the club since its National Football League franchise was moved here from Cleveland six years ago. He was appointed yesterday by owner Dan Reeves after Stydahar's resignation.

Stydahar said Pool, whom he selected as his assistant, wanted to run the club, "the whole works—his own way," and that he asked Reeves to intercede. Reeves, he said, refused to back him up.

"I asked for a showdown and it went against me," said the massive Stydahar, one of the pro league's all-time great linemen. "It's probably good for the ball club. I'm glad I got out."

Stydahar received his 1952 salary of $15,000, plus $7,500 as provided in the contract he signed after his Rams knocked over Cleveland last winter and won the world's championship. He said his plans are uncertain, that coaching staffs are full and that he is not particularly interested in a college job.

Pool told reporters he is going to bear down on the Rams to get them to give their level best all the time. He said he is going to be tough where Stydahar was easy going.

"Show me the 10 top winning teams in the United States and I'll show you the 10 most hated coaches," Pool told newsmen at the Rams' first practice session under his guidance.

Los Angeles has lost four straight games, including its first league contest last Sunday to the Cleveland Browns, 37-7.

Los Angeles — Joe Stydahar, who coached Los Angeles Rams of National Football League to two championships in two years at the helm, stepped out and was replaced by Hampton Pool, backfield coach.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Now engaged in their seventh World Series since 1900, the Dodgers make a habit of losing the fall classic. But they always put on a good series show.

Everything points to another Yankee victory, but we wouldn't be surprised if Charlie Dressen's Bums burst the shackles of defeatism and crash through to their first series triumph.

Memo of DUSO League coaches: Newburgh Academy, riding the crest of a brilliant football and basketball cycle, is the team to beat in this football campaign.

Coach Stan Hemingway's Goldbacks mauled Oyster Bay High, 65 to 12, Saturday on the Long Island gridiron. The Oysters, who won seven out of eight last year, were riddled by graduation and had only one varsity player return. Still, NFA's overwhelming margin over a school of that calibre, no matter what personnel, presages long and dreary afternoons for the rest of the DUSO teams. The Goldbacks uncovered Frank Stellitano and Bobby Spreer as two sensational backs. Stellitano was highly impressive against Kingston in last year's Turkey Day clash and we suspect he'll make the Hill City faithful forget Don Jackson.

Port Jervis suffered a 13-0 setback at Nyack High and the suspicion exists that the Red Raiders are vulnerable at the flanks. Mel Decker, however, is a powerful runner and can swing the difference on a good day.

Coach Bill Burke, who watched his KHS Maroons topple Highland, 26-0, in a bruising battle, isn't impressed by reports of the decadence of Sam Kalloch's Poughkeepsie dynasty.

"The Blues looked mighy good thumping the Trinity-Pawling combine, 26-0, last Saturday," Burke says, "and we're expecting a rugged battle here this week. They drove 80 yards in 10 plays the second time they gained possession and their Leo Elwell is one of the best halfbacks in the area. He got away for two nice TD runs—35 and 49 yards—and he'll be tough. You can write off that Beacon defeat as just one of those things. Beacon is well above average for them and some tactical mistakes helped swell the score against Poughkeepsie."

So, another nice, pleasant day between KHS and PHS this Saturday at municipal stadium. Sam, you know, still holds out against high school night football.

There is always a reason for emphasis on defense in the World Series and the Dodgers are loaded in this commodity. The likelihood of low-scoring games, especially with chuckers like Joe Black, Preacher Roe, Carl Erskine and the Yankees' Reynolds-Raschi-Lopat trio, stresses the desirability of airtight defenses. Hitting usually falls off in a World Series, due perhaps to a combination of pressure and strange pitching. A good catch or a strong throw can often be the difference.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

A single pin may not seem like much bunt under the new ABC rule, future tie games will not be bowled off, and the point or game in the team standings will have to be split and therefore that single pin may make a great difference in the final standings. This is a rule to be remembered by bowlers who get careless on their "fill" ball in the tenth. TV viewers will see two bowling shows out of New York this season. One will emanate from Channel 5 and will feature Gil MacDougald of the Yankees. Al Cirillo, a pioneer in bowling TV, expects to set up a show from one of the new Long Island palaces via Channel 13. Mrs. Gilberta Anderson, Poughkeepsie's queen of bowling, recently set an all-time women's record at the Dutchess Recreation with a 672 series. Scoring 22 strikes in three games, she compiled 223-203-246. Two things every league bowler should possess: his own ball and bowling shoes. Harold J. "Bus" Ochs, the prominent basketball and YMCA figure of Newburgh, copped BO Gill's hole-in-one tournament Sunday with a shot that landed 2 feet ½-inch from the cup. Mrs. Lee Dunphy copped the women's division with 6 feet 4½ inches.

If it is any consolation to Giant rooters, their team is the only ever to lead the National League from opening day through to the finish. That happened in 1923.

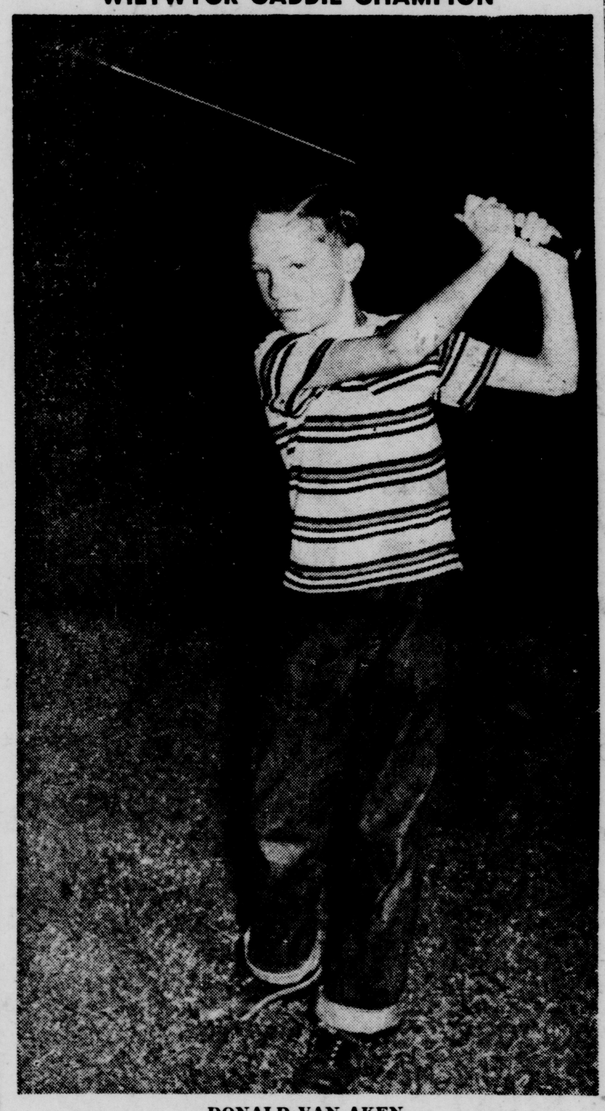
Pep Starts Comeback

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—Willie Pep, trying to hit the road back to the featherweight title at the age of 30, will tangle with Canada's lightweight and welterweight champion, Armond Savoie, tonight at Chicago Stadium. The nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder will start at 10 p. m. (EST). In Savoie, Pep will meet a rugged battler who has won 34 fights, 20 by knockouts, lost seven and fought four draws.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE'S 1952 PENNANT WINNERS

This is the hard-fighting Wiltwyck Motors squad that staged a late season surge to capture the 1952 City Baseball League pennant. They had to beat Jones Dairy twice to accomplish the feat, first in the second half playoff and again in the one-game championship test. The team personnel, in its second year in the league, front row: Johnny Minadeo, batboy Phil Sinagra, and Danny Minadeo; second row, Tony Williams, mgr.; Ferrell McElrath, co-manager; Joe Digastino, who pitched two championship games; Harry Kite and Ernie Trapani. Third row: Lefty Passante, Augie Passante, Eddie Passante, Frank Reis and Tim Murphy. (Freeman Photo).

WILTWYCK CADDIE CHAMPION



DONALD VAN AKEN

Maroon Plays Poughkeepsie Here Saturday

First returns from the DUSO League football fronts are due this weekend by nightfall Saturday, conference fans should have a fair line on championship hopes of at least four of the schools.

Sam Kalloch leads the resurgent Poughkeepsie Blues into municipal stadium for a daylight clash with Kingston Saturday afternoon for a battle that is rated a tossup.

The Saturday afternoon game is a departure from the traditional September-November night schedule at municipal stadium, but the DUSO League never has been able to budge Coach Kalloch from his stand against night football. For years, the portly Bridge City mentor has been an uncompromising foe of after-dark scholastic athletics.

Newburgh Free Academy, with a powerful one-two backfield punch in Bobby Spreer (ever hear the name?) and Frank Stellitano, is expected to devour Middletown Friday night on the Middie gridiron.

Port Jervis Idle

Port Jervis fans, gathered at the wailing wall because of alleged weak ends and dearth of experienced players, will have to wait another week before they see the Red and Black in DUSO action.

Newburgh is rolling on from the momentum of last year's spectacular accomplishments and with the best material in the league rates the championship halo until somebody comes along to knock it off.

The Stellitano-Spreer combination appears to be the toughest in the area.

Blues In Rally

The Kingston-Poughkeepsie clash is something else again. At the start of the season Coach Kalloch used the crying towel with such frequency that Frank Leahy's copyright was in jeopardy.

Poughkeepsie dropped its opener to Beacon High, an ignominious gataway in the eyes of old Blues, but a closer inspection of the game revealed Beacon as considerably above its average in football this season.

Kalloch then turned loose two standout backs against the Trinity-Pawling combination and scored a 26-0 triumph. Not DUSO League calibre, you say, but the Blues came up with two backfield operators who should be able to move against any type of opposition.

The biggest Poughkeepsie threat is senior halfback Leo Elwell, who romped 35 and 49 yards for TD's against Trinity-Pawling. A swivel-hipped ball carrier he will be the object of considerable Kingston concern Saturday. Against T1P he ran in a sensational style that recalled Muzzy Wright and Leroy "Eggie" Johnson of last year's squad.

Dom Pacio, a hard driving fullback, turned in a great performance against T-P. He plunged for one touchdown and was effective in scoring territory all afternoon.

Defense May Be Weak

If there is one chink in the Poughkeepsie armor it must be in the defense. Trinity-Pawling piled up 169 yards from scrimmage. The Poughkeepsie defense stiffened, however, inside the 20 yard line.

Kingston High emerged from the bruising battle at Highland in good physical condition, Coach Bill Burke said today and all the regulars will be available for Saturday's renewal of the ancient series.

The Maroon was obviously superior over Highland by a greater margin than the final score indicated. But Burke, leading 19-0, had a good chance to give his sophomores and untested junior reserves a real workout. The fact that Kingston used 27 players without any apparent dimunition of power indicated a high all-round potential for the 1952 season.

Burke said he would start Saturday's game with the "Big Four" backfield of Gene Massa, Orville Giles, Pat Manfro and Roger Billings. The first string line is intact and the pass-catching exploits of Fred Jackson in one touchdown march against Highland hints more activity for him against Poughkeepsie.

Pool Thinks Rams Can Still Win

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (AP)—J. Hampton Pool, named to succeed Jumbo Joe Stydahar as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, says he has the personnel to win another championship.

"I'm not saying we'll win it, mind you," Pool hastened to explain, "but we do have the men who can do it."

Pool is the fifth pilot of the club since its National Football League franchise was moved here from Cleveland six years ago. He was appointed yesterday by owner Dan Reeves after Stydahar's resignation.

Stydahar said Pool, whom he selected as his assistant, wanted to run the club, "the whole works—his own way," and that he asked Reeves to intercede. Reeves, he said, refused to back him up.

"I asked for a showdown and it went against me," said the massive Stydahar, one of the pro league's all-time great linemen. "It's probably good for the ball club. I'm glad I got out."

Stydahar received his 1952 salary of $15,000, plus $7,500 as provided in the contract he signed after his Rams knocked over Cleveland last winter and won the world's championship. He said his plans are uncertain, that coaching staffs are full and that he is not particularly interested in a college job.

Pool told reporters he is going to bear down on the Rams to get them to give their level best all the time. He said he is going to be tough where Stydahar was easy going.

"Show me the 10 top winning teams in the United States and I'll show you the 10 most hated coaches," Pool told newsmen at the Rams' first practice session under his guidance.

Los Angeles has lost four straight games, including its first league contest last Sunday to the Cleveland Browns, 37-7.

Los Angeles—Joe Stydahar, who coached Los Angeles Rams of National Football League to two championships in two years at the helm, stepped out and was replaced by Hampton Pool, backfield coach.

Reynolds and Black Confident on Eve of World Series; Steve O'Neill Believes Dodgers Have Chance to Win

Carl Erskine

Preacher Roe

Brooklyn, Oct. 1 (AP)—Last minute quotes from the opposing pitchers in the opener of the World Series today at Ebbets Field:

Joe Black, Brooklyn—"The way I feel right now it's just another ball game. The Yankees don't awe me at all. After watching them work out, I realized they were just another ball club. They're a good ball club, but the Dodgers seem to be a pretty good club, too."

Allie Reynolds, New York—"I feel okey. I know that the series starts today. I believe we're up for the game. I know I am, and that's about it."

Outfielders Carl Furillo of the Brooks and Gene Woodling of the Yankees, each of whom is nursing a slight injury, are not worrying.

Furillo's left hand is taped. "The only time I feel my pain is when I swing at one and miss it," said Carl. "But the bandage helps."

Woodling's groin injury seems to have healed and he said he felt "fine" when he lifted his bat.

Commissioner Ford Frick laid down a couple of rules to keep the games going at a brisk pace:

1. No more than four men to gather around the pitchers' mound when the hurler is in distress.

2. The batter must run toward first base immediately after a dropped third strike. If he doesn't he's out.

The lobby of the Towers Hotel, Brooklyn's series headquarters, is jammed with baseball people. Saddest ones are the old timers hoping to catch on with some club.

Steve O'Neill, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and ex-chief of the Cleveland Indians, should be an authority on the Dodgers and Yanks, having tried to beat both of them.

"These are two remarkably strong opponents," he said. "If the Dodgers get a well-pitched game they can beat the Yanks. Brooklyn has a full line-up of players who can run and hit the long ball, and they are likely to win if they get the pitching."

O'Neill was in the minority, though. Most of the baseball people milling around thought the New Yorkers would pulverize the Dodger pitching staff.

Latest line had the odds on the Yanks to take the series 8-9. Translated to a man to man betting a Yank supporter has to give 9-5 while a Dodger fan can get 8-5. Yanks favored to take first and second games at 6-7.

Managers Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers and Casey Stengel of the Yankees are just about exhausted from interviews. They've said about all they can and now are resorting to wisecracks.

Said Dressen in reply to a question as to whether he was superstitious of winning the first game:

"Nope. You know the old gag—if you win the first one, they can't win them all."

Said Stengel while pondering his batting order:

"Everybody on the club has served as leadoff man except Yogi Berra, and maybe we'll get to him before this thing is over."

Ralph Kiner on Block

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ralph Kiner, seven-time home run king of the National League, has been placed on the market to the highest bidder, the Associated Press learned today.

It also was learned that the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves had shown interest in the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger but were balking at the "skyscraping" figure put on Kiner by Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

"Sure, we're interested in Kiner," a Braves official said. "Why shouldn't we be? We're not the only club anxious to get him, either."

A Cub official said practically the same thing.

We'd like to have Kiner," the Chicago representative confessed. "He always hit well in Wrigley Field. We're willing to go pretty high for him, too. But from what I've heard, Rickey wants too much."

Neither official wished to be identified.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Now engaged in their seventh World Series since 1900, the Dodgers make a habit of losing the fall classic. But they always put on a good series show.

Everything points to another Yankee victory, but we wouldn't be surprised if Charlie Dressen's Bums burst the shackles of defeatism and crash through to their first series triumph.

Memo of DUSO League coaches: Newburgh Academy, riding the crest of a brilliant football and basketball cycle, is the team to beat in this football campaign.

Coach Stan Hemingway's Goldbacks mauled Oyster Bay High, 65 to 12, Saturday on the Long Island gridiron. The Oysters, who won seven out of eight last year, were riddled by graduation and had only one varsity player return. Still, NFA's overwhelming margin over a school of that calibre, no matter what personnel, presages long and dreary afternoons for the rest of the DUSO teams. The Goldbacks uncovered Frank Stellitano and Bobby Spreer as two sensational backs. Stellitano was highly impressive against Kingston in last year's Turkey Day clash and we suspect he'll make the Hill City faithful forget Don Jackson.

Port Jervis suffered a 13-0 setback at Nyack High and the suspicion exists that the Red Raiders are vulnerable at the flanks. Mel Decker, however, is a powerful runner and can swing the difference on a good day.

Coach Bill Burke, who watched his KHS Maroons topple Highland, 26-0, in a bruising battle, isn't impressed by reports of the decadence of Sam Kalloch's Poughkeepsie dynasty.

"The Blues looked mighy good thumping the Trinity-Pawling combine, 26-0, last Saturday," Burke says, "and we're expecting a rugged battle here this week. They drove 80 yards in 10 plays the second time they gained possession and their Leo Elwell is one of the best halfbacks in the area. He got away for two nice TD runs—35 and 49 yards—and he'll be tough. You can write off that Beacon defeat as just one of those things. Beacon is well above average for them and some tactical mistakes helped swell the score against Poughkeepsie."

So, another nice, pleasant day between KHS and PHS this Saturday at municipal stadium. Sam, you know, still holds out against high school night football.

There is always a reason for emphasis on defense in the World Series and the Dodgers are loaded in this commodity. The likelihood of low-scoring games, especially with chuckers like Joe Black, Preacher Roe, Carl Erskine and the Yankees' Reynolds-Raschi-Lopat trio, stresses the desirability of airtight defenses. Hitting usually falls off in a World Series, due perhaps to a combination of pressure and strange pitching. A good catch or a strong throw can often be the difference.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

A single pin may not seem like much bunt under the new ABC rule, future tie games will not be bowled off, and the point or game in the team standings will have to be split and therefore that single pin may make a great difference in the final standings. This is a rule to be remembered by bowlers who get careless on their "fill" ball in the tenth. TV viewers will see two bowling shows out of New York this season. One will emanate from Channel 5 and will feature Gil MacDougald of the Yankees. Al Cirillo, a pioneer in bowling TV, expects to set up a show from one of the new Long Island palaces via Channel 13. Mrs. Gilberta Anderson, Poughkeepsie's queen of bowling, recently set an all-time women's record at the Dutchess Recreation with a 672 series. Scoring 22 strikes in three games, she compiled 223-203-246. Two things every league bowler should possess: his own ball and bowling shoes. Harold J. "Bus" Ochs, the prominent basketball and YMCA figure of Newburgh, copped BO Gill's hole-in-one tournament Sunday with a shot that landed 2 feet ½-inch from the cup. Mrs. Lee Dunphy copped the women's division with 6 feet 4½ inches.

If it is any consolation to Giant rooters, their team is the only ever to lead the National League from opening day through to the finish. That happened in 1923.

Pep Starts Comeback

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—Willie Pep, trying to hit the road back to the featherweight title at the age of 30, will tangle with Canada's lightweight and welterweight champion, Armond Savoie, tonight at Chicago Stadium. The nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder will start at 10 p. m. (EST). In Savoie, Pep will meet a rugged battler who has won 34 fights, 20 by knockouts, lost seven and fought four draws.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE'S 1952 PENNANT WINNERS

This is the hard-fighting Wiltwyck Motors squad that staged a late season surge to capture the 1952 City Baseball League pennant. They had to beat Jones Dairy twice to accomplish the feat, first in the second half playoff and again in the one-game championship test. The team personnel, in its second year in the league, front row: Johnny Minadeo, batboy Phil Sinagra, and Danny Minadeo; second row, Tony Williams, mgr.; Ferrell McElrath, co-manager; Joe Digastino, who pitched two championship games; Harry Kite and Ernie Trapani. Third row: Lefty Passante, Augie Passante, Eddie Passante, Frank Reis and Tim Murphy. (Freeman Photo).

WILTWYCK CADDIE CHAMPION

DONALD VAN AKEN

Wiltwyck Motors Trip Three Bros., 77-58; 50 Club 55-47 Winners Over 156th FA

The Wiltwyck Motors powerhouse overwhelmed the 3 Bros. Farm five, 77-58, and the 50 Club overcame a halftime deficit to defeat 156th FA, 55-47, in last night's Y Autumn Basketball League contests.

Powered by Big Bill Kleine's 20-point harvest and 17 by Tom Morrissey, the Motormen moved out in front 24-11 at the quarter mark and 34-21 against the Farms at halftime.

Klein, the big Woodstock sharpshooter, picked up eight points from the foul line and had six fields. Morrissey hit for seven baskets and three singletons. Vince Peck and Cliff Schoonmaker contributed 11 points each.

Big Jack Doyle hit for 17 points in a losing cause and Big Jim Ferraro collected 13.

Hinkley Drops 20

Bruce "Red" Hinkley matched Kleine for high individual scoring for the night with 20 points against 50 Club but couldn't carry the whole load against the balanced 50 Club power. Huyler Van Wagenen added 14 markers.

Don Smith was high scorer for the winners with 13 points but seven others figured in the scoring.

Women's Group Honors Beverly Port At Testimonial Dinner Here on Thursday

The New York State Woman's Bowling Association's top officers—Mrs. Iola Lasher, president, and Mrs. Ruth Hunzinger, secretary—will join with the membership of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association in honoring Mrs. Beverly Port at a testimonial dinner on Thursday, Oct. 2, at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Mrs. Port, one of the city's best women keglers, will receive a gold medal for a 288 single she rolled last season. It was the second highest woman's score compiled in New York state last season.

Past president of the KWBA also will be honored and the past president of the Kingston Bowling Association also have been invited, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president, said today.

BOWLING

Frank Robinson compiled a league-leading series of 586 with 203-194-189 in last night's session of the Central Rec League.

Jack Blinder's 204-167-210-581 was best-of-night in the Good Neighbor wheel and Walter Miller's 555, with 198-179-178, topped the Ferraro Mixed circuit.

Charlie Horne exploded with a big 566 triple on the Y drives to front run for the Federation National. Byron Chatham came up with the top series of 482 in the International division. Horne shot 163-179-224 and Chatham had 165-164-153.

Heins is Runnerup

Eddie Heins' 216-204 was good for the runnerup slot in the Central Rec circuit which hit for 15 "500" series. Earl Sleight toppled 575, Allen Hoey 561, Len Ward 204-544, Joe Sangi 200-541 and Bill Johnson 221-533.

George Svirsky knocked off 203-564 in the Good Neighbor and Phil Levy cracked 207-557. M. Levy with 209-544, George Goldfarb 221-541 and Jay Melton 200-532 were also in the top bracket.

The Ferraro Mixer had a half dozen "500" triples. Besides Miller's 555, John North rolled 532, Bob Gorsline 531, Barney Rosinski 520, Bill Lawrence 513 and Tom Sickler 505. Near-misses included J. Coughlin's 499.

Charlie Horne's blast in the Federation National was one of the heftiest on the Y planks this season. Runnerup Bill MacElveen knocked off 511 and Ferd Short and Hughe Ferguson tied with 508s. D. Wood shot 506, J. Foster socked 500 on the nose and Doug Harvey just missed with 499.

Trailing Chatham in the International circuit were F. Mollenhauer with 477 and G. Howland with 473. The upper scoring bracket was completed with F. Shields' 462, E. Dayton 456 and R. Fatum 454.

Movies Now Give Illusion of Depth

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—You can now take a breath-gasping ride on a roller coaster—sitting in a movie seat.

You'll gasp. Get clammy hands. It's real.

It premiered last night at the Broadway theatre.

The first showing of the new film is pitched on its technique rather than a dramatic story. The backers of the new process wanted to show what it could do. The result is a series of beautiful and at times startling sketches in color of Europe and American scenes.

The film is projected on a curved screen. It's like looking into the bottom of a "U." The screen is about six times the size of the one in your neighborhood theatre.

Really Three Pictures

The image on the screen is not one picture. It's really three. In making the movie, the photographer uses a camera with three lenses. One looks straight ahead, a second to the left and a third to the right.

The projection is the same way. You see three pictures joined together as one on the big screen. Because of the curve in the screen, you get the illusion of depth.

With the new projection system, cinerama also has come up with new sound. There are five loudspeakers spaced around the curved screen and other loudspeakers are at the sides and in back of the theatre.

In producing the picture, the microphones were so placed in relation to the camera. The result is that the sound moves around the theatre just as the action does on the screen.

The screen is not a big semi-circular piece of material. To help the blending of the three images, it is fashioned from thin vertical strips of material—like a giant row of partially closed venetian blinds standing on end.

The most exciting sequence in the film, "This is Cinerama," was the opening one. This took the audience on a roller coaster ride with all the realism of being in the front coaster seat.

Baseball

Sacramento, Calif.—Joe Gordon, player-manager of Sacramento Solons of Pacific Coast League, resigned.

Racing

New York—Tom Fool ($4.20), 1951 two-year old champion, won $15,000-added Sysonby mile at Belmont for second victory in row.

Atom Facilities

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. Navy Secretary Dan Kimball said today the U. S. has ships and navy planes capable of carrying atom bombs as well as a special guided missile ship "already in being." The secretary, here during a tour of American and allied installations in Europe, predicted it would be "only a question of time before we can take advantage of atomic power" for propelling surface craft, including the largest combat ships and aircraft carriers. Referring to the recent use of guided planes for bombardment in Korea, Kimball said only limited use has been made there of such weapons because "important targets are not always available in that area."

Wiltwyck Motors Trip Three Bros., 77-58; 50 Club 55-47 Winners Over 156th FA

The Wiltwyck Motors powerhouse overwhelmed the 3 Bros. Farm five, 77-58, and the 50 Club overcame a halftime deficit to defeat 156th FA, 55-47, in last night's Y Autumn Basketball League contests.

Powered by Big Bill Kleine's 20-point harvest and 17 by Tom Morrissey, the Motormen moved out in front 24-11 at the quarter mark and 34-21 against the Farms at halftime.

Klein, the big Woodstock sharpshooter, picked up eight points from the foul line and had six fields. Morrissey hit for seven baskets and three singletons. Vince Peck and Cliff Schoonmaker contributed 11 points each.

Big Jack Doyle hit for 17 points in a losing cause and Big Jim Ferraro collected 13.

Hinkley Drops 20

Bruce "Red" Hinkley matched Kleine for high individual scoring for the night with 20 points against 50 Club but couldn't carry the whole load against the balanced 50 Club power. Huyler Van Wagenen added 14 markers.

Don Smith was high scorer for the winners with 13 points but seven others figured in the scoring.

Women's Group Honors Beverly Port At Testimonial Dinner Here on Thursday

The New York State Woman's Bowling Association's top officers—Mrs. Iola Lasher, president, and Mrs. Ruth Hunzinger, secretary—will join with the membership of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association in honoring Mrs. Beverly Port at a testimonial dinner on Thursday, Oct. 2, at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Mrs. Port, one of the city's best women keglers, will receive a gold medal for a 288 single she rolled last season. It was the second highest woman's score compiled in New York state last season.

Past president of the KWBA also will be honored and the past president of the Kingston Bowling Association also have been invited, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president, said today.

BOWLING

Frank Robinson compiled a league-leading series of 586 with 203-194-189 in last night's session of the Central Rec League.

Jack Blinder's 204-167-210-581 was best-of-night in the Good Neighbor wheel and Walter Miller's 555, with 198-179-178, topped the Ferraro Mixed circuit.

Charlie Horne exploded with a big 566 triple on the Y drives to front run for the Federation National. Byron Chatham came up with the top series of 482 in the International division. Horne shot 163-179-224 and Chatham had 165-164-153.

Heins is Runnerup

Eddie Heins' 216-204 was good for the runnerup slot in the Central Rec circuit which hit for 15 "500" series. Earl Sleight toppled 575, Allen Hoey 561, Len Ward 204-544, Joe Sangi 200-541 and Bill Johnson 221-533.

George Svirsky knocked off 203-564 in the Good Neighbor and Phil Levy cracked 207-557. M. Levy with 209-544, George Goldfarb 221-541 and Jay Melton 200-532 were also in the top bracket.

The Ferraro Mixer had a half dozen "500" triples. Besides Miller's 555, John North rolled 532, Bob Gorsline 531, Barney Rosinski 520, Bill Lawrence 513 and Tom Sickler 505. Near-misses included J. Coughlin's 499.

Charlie Horne's blast in the Federation National was one of the heftiest on the Y planks this season. Runnerup Bill MacElveen knocked off 511 and Ferd Short and Hughe Ferguson tied with 508s. D. Wood shot 506, J. Foster socked 500 on the nose and Doug Harvey just missed with 499.

Trailing Chatham in the International circuit were F. Mollenhauer with 477 and G. Howland with 473. The upper scoring bracket was completed with F. Shields' 462, E. Dayton 456 and R. Fatum 454.

Movies Now Give Illusion of Depth

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—You can now take a breath-gasping ride on a roller coaster—sitting in a movie seat.

You'll gasp. Get clammy hands. It's real.

It's cinerama. This is a new movie system of projecting pictures which gives an illusion of the third dimension—depth.

It premiered last night at the Broadway theatre.

The first showing of the new film is pitched on its technique rather than a dramatic story. The backers of the new process wanted to show what it could do. The result is a series of beautiful and at times startling sketches in color of Europe and American scenes.

The film is projected on a curved screen. It's like looking into the bottom of a "U." The screen is about six times the size of the one in your neighborhood theatre.

Really Three Pictures

The image on the screen is not one picture. It's really three. In making the movie, the photographer uses a camera with three lenses. One looks straight ahead, a second to the left and a third to the right.

The projection is the same way. You see three pictures joined together as one on the big screen. Because of the curve in the screen, you get the illusion of depth.

With the new projection system, cinerama also has come up with new sound. There are five loudspeakers spaced around the curved screen and other loudspeakers are at the sides and in back of the theatre.

In producing the picture, the microphones were so placed in relation to the camera. The result is that the sound moves around the theatre just as the action does on the screen.

The screen is not a big semi-circular piece of material. To help the blending of the three images, it is fashioned from thin vertical strips of material—like a giant row of partially closed venetian blinds standing on end.

The most exciting sequence in the film, "This is Cinerama," was the opening one. This took the audience on a roller coaster ride with all the realism of being in the front coaster seat.

Atom Facilities

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. Navy Secretary Dan Kimball said today the U. S. has ships and navy planes capable of carrying atom bombs as well as a special guided missile ship "already in being." The secretary, here during a tour of American and allied installations in Europe, predicted it would be "only a question of time before we can take advantage of atomic power" for propelling surface craft, including the largest combat ships and aircraft carriers. Referring to the recent use of guided planes for bombardment in Korea, Kimball said only limited use has been made there of such weapons because "important targets are not always available in that area."

Young People Praised For Worthy Efforts

In June of this year, a group of teenage girls anxious to help others less fortunate than themselves, organized a club known as the Teenagers Club of Kingston During the summer months, by their own efforts, they raised sufficient funds to purchase and present a wheelchair to one of their contemporaries, Miss Marie Horvers, 12 years of age. The Rev. William Raftery commended the young people for their splendid accomplishment when the chair presentation was made on Saturday evening at a dinner in Leherb's restaurant.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horvers of Port Ewen, Marie was also elected to honorary membership in the club. The girls heard about Marie, who formerly attended St. Peter's School, through the Rev. William Raftery. Since she was stricken with paralysis earlier this year, Marie has used a borrowed wheelchair. "We thought she would be happier with a chair of her own," said one of the teenagers, who explained how they immediately began planning to raise funds to purchase the chair.

Additional events are planned for the future but meanwhile the young people are busy making favors and other articles for the Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals as well as the Rev. Father Fogarty of the Redemptorist Order of Missions.

Mrs. Henry DeWitt, 324 Wall street and Mrs. Nicholas Huber, 110 Newkirk avenue, serve the group in an advisory capacity.

The members, aged 12 to 16 years, include the Misses Maureen Kelly, Mary Huber, Patricia Simmons, Patricia Amato, Shirley Motrie, Eileen Matthews, Dolores Smith, Rosemary Buzanco and Jacqueline Avery. Any young people who are interested and would like to become members in the club may contact Mrs. DeWitt or Mrs. Huber.

Farewell Tree

Oshawa, Canada (AP)—Mrs. A. M. Farewell celebrated her 100th birthday by planting a tree on the site of a new United Church. Among many dignitaries attending the ceremony, Mayor Michael Starr congratulated her on behalf of the city council.

Red Book Features City Tercentenary

Six pages of illustrations devoted to this city include a reproduction of Governor Dewey's proclamation of the year as Kingston Tercentenary Year, pictures of many Colonial buildings, a sketch of the old Ulster county court house, and a portrait of Governor George Clinton.

Shows Buildings

Among the buildings pictured are the Senate House, the Conrad Elmendorf Tavern, Henry Sleight homestead (now the DAR chapter house), and the Van Steenburgh house, shown as it appeared in the middle of the 19th century.

Another special feature of the 1952 Red Book is a brief account of the evolution of government in New York state, entitled, Three Hundred Years of Representative Government. Kingston is prominently mentioned in the narrative.

The Red Book, now in its 61st edition, is published annually and has been recognized as an "authorized publication" by concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly. John S. Mearns of Kingston is its editor, and Williams Press, Inc., of Albany is the publisher.

Lions to Promote Fire Prevention

The safety committee of the Kingston Lions Club will take an active part in the promotion of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6 to 11, its chairman, Max J. Oppenheimer announced following the Lions Club regular meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday.

Committee members plan to accompany Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy in visits to local schools during the week to observe fire drills, Oppenheimer said. They will also give Chief Murphy their cooperation in other activities during the week. Committee members are City Judge Raymond Mino, Robert A. Donnaruma, Bernhardt S. Kramer and Roland A. Augustine.

The club's regular meeting on Tuesday was devoted to club business and there was no program.

Says Adlai in Trap

Johnson City, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft plugged for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower for president last night in east Tennessee, the GOP stronghold which furnished some of Taft's strongest support for his own presidential bid. The Ohio Senator accused Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, of falling right into a Communist trap in backing the spending policies of the Truman administration. "No one can deny that prices are steadily increasing under the policy of the Truman administration," Taft said. "Governor Stevenson offers no remedy except remedies that have failed, and he endorses the policy of the Truman administration."

LEGAL NOTICE

INVITATION TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Commissioners of the Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, N. Y., at its office in the City Hall, 408 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., until 3:00 p. m., October 3rd, 1952, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

Proposals are invited on Contract No. 13 for the construction of trunk line sanitary sewer on Clinton Avenue from Cedar Street to Henry Street for a total distance of approximately 360 feet, on which contract the approximate quantities of items for the comparison of bids are as follows:

Item 1—140 Lin. Ft. 24" extra strength V.T. pipe sewer 20'-22' deep.
Item 2—220 Lin. Ft. 24" extra strength V.T. pipe sewer 22'-24' deep.
Item 3—3 manholes, 23' deep.
Item 4—25 Cu. Yds, mass concrete.
Item 5—20 Cu. Yds. rock excavation.
Item 6—Extra work.

Proposals must be submitted on forms furnished by the Board of Public Works. These forms, together with other contract documents, including plans and specifications, may be obtained from the Dept. of Engineering, A. F. Hallinan, City Engineer, City Hall, upon the deposit of $10.00, which will be refunded upon the return of documents in good order within ten days after the opening of bids. Contractors who do not submit proposals will be refunded $5.00 upon the return of the documents above. These documents may be examined free of charge at the above office of the Department of Engineering.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check in the amount of ten per centum (10%) of the total amount bid, which will be returnable upon the non-acceptance of bid or the execution of the contract. No bids may be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

The Commissioners expressly reserve the right to waive any informality in or to accept any bid, or to reject any or all bids, or to award on any or all items, as the interest of the City of Kingston may appear to require.

By order of the Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, New York.

Young People Praised For Worthy Efforts

In June of this year, a group of teenage girls anxious to help others less fortunate than themselves, organized a club known as the Teenagers Club of Kingston During the summer months, by their own efforts, they raised sufficient funds to purchase and present a wheelchair to one of their contemporaries, Miss Marie Horvers, 12 years of age. The Rev. William Raftery commended the young people for their splendid accomplishment when the chair presentation was made on Saturday evening at a dinner in Leherb's restaurant.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horvers of Port Ewen, Marie was also elected to honorary membership in the club. The girls heard about Marie, who formerly attended St. Peter's School, through the Rev. William Raftery. Since she was stricken with paralysis earlier this year, Marie has used a borrowed wheelchair. "We thought she would be happier with a chair of her own," said one of the teenagers, who explained how they immediately began planning to raise funds to purchase the chair.

Additional events are planned for the future but meanwhile the young people are busy making favors and other articles for the Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals as well as the Rev. Father Fogarty of the Redemptorist Order of Missions.

Mrs. Henry DeWitt, 324 Wall street and Mrs. Nicholas Huber, 110 Newkirk avenue, serve the group in an advisory capacity.

The members, aged 12 to 16 years, include the Misses Maureen Kelly, Mary Huber, Patricia Simmons, Patricia Amato, Shirley Motrie, Eileen Matthews, Dolores Smith, Rosemary Buzanco and Jacqueline Avery. Any young people who are interested and would like to become members in the club may contact Mrs. DeWitt or Mrs. Huber.

Red Book Features City Tercentenary

Kingston's tercentenary year is the subject of a special feature in the 1952 edition of The New York Red Book, just published.

Six pages of illustrations devoted to this city include a reproduction of Governor Dewey's proclamation of the year as Kingston Tercentenary Year, pictures of many Colonial buildings, a sketch of the old Ulster county court house, and a portrait of Governor George Clinton.

Shows Buildings

Among the buildings pictured are the Senate House, the Conrad Elmendorf Tavern, Henry Sleight homestead (now the DAR chapter house), and the Van Steenburgh house, shown as it appeared in the middle of the 19th century.

Another special feature of the 1952 Red Book is a brief account of the evolution of government in New York state, entitled, Three Hundred Years of Representative Government. Kingston is prominently mentioned in the narrative.

The Red Book, now in its 61st edition, is published annually and has been recognized as an "authorized publication" by concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly. John S. Mearns of Kingston is its editor, and Williams Press, Inc., of Albany is the publisher.

Pleasant Fall Weather Favors Wide U. S. Area

(By The Associated Press)

More pleasant fall weather appeared in prospect for wide areas of the country today.

It was a little cooler in the north central region and northern New England. The cool Canadian air spread southward over the Dakotas and Montana this morning and headed for north central regions. Temperatures dropped to freezing in Caribou, Me. early today.

But warm weather continued in the lower and middle Mississippi valley and the west gulf and central plains states. Record high readings—in the 90's—were reported for the day in parts of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri yesterday.

Only shower activity early today was in the upper Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Skies were clear in other areas.

Postal Clerks Are To Meet Sunday

Kingston Local, 4770, National Federation of Post Office Clerks (AFL) will be host for the Eastern New York sectional meeting of the organization at 2 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 5, at the Elks Club, 259 Fair street.

Speakers will include Congressman J. Ernest Wharton; Orlando Francione, newly elected national vice-president of the organization; Everett Credo, president of the New York state federation; Patrick J. Fitzgerald, president of Local No. 10, New York, and Mrs. M. Langley, national vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the federation.

Other invited guests include Senator Irving Ives, John Cashmore, Democratic nominee for congressman, and Ephraim Handman, former national vice-president of the federation.

William P. Barry, secretary of Local 4770, said today that all postal clerks and their wives from Kingston and from Hudson valley offices from New York to Troy were cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Truman said the Democrats "won't let propaganda about socialism scare us into failing to develop our resources."

He said the only possible action taken by the Republicans in 20 long years of opposition to public power was to pass a special act of Congress "to change the name of Boulder Dam to Hoover Dam."

munist planes in September to 62 MIGs destroyed, seven probably destroyed and 57 damaged.

Brightly colored pennants fluttered on the western front as Chinese Communists celebrated the third anniversary of the founding of their Red regime. The Reds added a gruesome touch by displaying the body of a dead American soldier before one forward position.

Savage close-in fighting flared on the central front west of the Pukhan river when a company of Chinese tried to capture an allied hill position.

The hand-to-hand fighting lasted nearly two hours. UN troops stood their ground and forced the Chinese back with bayonets, grenades and fists.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the Reds lost 3,171 men killed, wounded and captured last week in ground fighting.

Kilgore Sues Paper

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 1 (AP)—Sen. Harley M. Kilgore (D-W.Va.) has filed a two-million dollar damage suit against the Charleston Daily Mail. He started his suit in Circuit Court yesterday a few hours after the mail published a reprint of an article about Kilgore which appeared originally in the American Mercury.

Senator Ives Departs on Trip

Ives Says Truman Failures Shocking

Plattsburgh, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives (R.-N. Y.) is keynoting his 41-county campaign tour with accusations of "shocking failure" by the Truman Administration to provide the nation with adequate defenses.

The Norwich Republican was booked for a luncheon meeting at Malone today, the third day of his two-week bus tour upstate. Yesterday he swung through Clinton and Essex counties.

At a GOP rally here last night, Ives enumerated appropriations for defense totaling 128 billion dollars. He said Congress voted the money "on the assumption that, in the accordance with the program presented by the President, (it) would be spent at the rate of $60 billions a year."

Quotes DPA Statement

Ives quoted the Defense Production Administration as saying the nation was a year and a half behind its defense armament schedule and still "three years away from the completion of the program that is to make us even minimally secure."

"To me," the senator said, "all this is the most shocking revelation of failure, the most frightening confession of incompetence, any administration could make to the people of the United States."

But "it is not too late to retrieve some of the losses we have suffered in the past 18 months of incompetence," said Ives. He has been plugging Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP presidential candidate, as "qualified above all others" to shore up the nation's defenses.

Columbia Paper Opposes

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Columbia University's student newspaper today declared its opposition to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the university president on leave, and gave its support to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson for the presidency.

Adlai Hits GOP

said that to exploit the original one "for partisan purposes is the kind of political opportunism which will never catch Communists."

"A highly professional, nonpolitical intelligence agency is indispensable to the government, whether a Republican or Democrat is president," Stevenson said in a formal statement. "It must never become a political football."

Continuous Job

The whole episode shows, Stevenson said, that fighting Communist penetration in government is a job, and a never ending one, for our security agencies.

"Gen. Smith's statement," the Illinois governor said, "makes ludicrous the claim of the Republicans that this is a simple job which can be done easily if it is turned over to them."

So far as Stevenson himself was concerned, the CDA episode indicated the seriousness with which he and his lieutenants regard the Communist issue.

The Democratic nominee isn't one to get out a statement at the drop of a dangling participle. But with the GOP trying to make communism in government one of the big issues of the campaign, he rushed out a statement this time.

Stevenson's meeting with leaders of the volunteers supporting his campaign was the only definite appointment on the governor's schedule today.

Lie Protests Snub

United Nations, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mildly protesting another Russian snub, United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie has accepted Valerian A. Zorin's credentials as the Soviet Union's new chief delegate to the world organization. In a formal statement, Lie said yesterday Zorin's credentials were adequate even though the Russians ignored the rule requiring they be addressed to the secretary general personally. The credentials, signed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, were addressed only to the UN secretariat.

Insane Man Held

Police said he would be arraigned today if his condition permits.

Most of Cash Found

All but $1,578.52 of the $51,239.30 that Difraia took from Mrs. Carol Maynard, the bank teller, was recovered in the gunman's automobile and outside the bank, police said.

Police said some of the missing $1,578.52 was scattered when Difraia dropped part of the loot outside the bank and again when Difraia tossed bills away out of frustration when he had to abandon his car in a traffic jam in Pawtucket. Police searchers failed to find the money later.

The slain policeman was Charles Patenaude, 47, of Pawtucket, an ambulance driver who wheeled up to the scene of the shooting and stepped out of the ambulance right into the line of fire.

Patrolman James Cavanaugh, 41, of Providence, was shot in the back. Another casualty was Patrolman Joseph Donnelly of Providence, who suffered a broken ankle in the case.

Abandons His Car

When the chase got too hot, Difraia abandoned his car on a Pawtucket street about five miles from the bank and forced his way into the home of Mrs. Robert Laprade and her mother, Mrs. Mary Sandring. As police surrounded the house he attempted to escape by walking to a parked automobile with Mrs. Laprade in front of him as a shield but police opened fire and shot Difraia in the arm. He ducked back into the house and dragged the woman with him.

Mrs. Laprade's 5-year-old son Royal escaped out a back door during the gunfire.

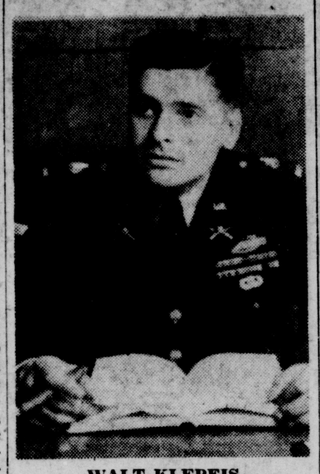
Cantor Still in Hospital

Hollywood, Oct. 1 (AP)—Eddie Cantor, who suffered a mild heart attack after his first television show of the season Sunday night, is still confined to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today. His nurse said this morning that he "rested fairly well" during the night. The 60-year-old comic collapsed at his Beverly Hills home after the one-hour show. At first it was reported that he suffered from exhaustion but later his physician attributed the collapse to his heart. Dr. Julius Kahn reported that the "symptoms are not alarming."

Can't Figure Pancho

Upland, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—This is a progress report on Pancho, the post office mascot. You may remember Pancho, who makes the rounds with postman Charlie Deverts. Pancho made the papers when Daylight Saving started, showing up an hour late the first few days, then setting off at a brisk trot until he caught up with Charlie. Sure enough, the dog was early the first couple of days after time returned to Standard. But he just lay down to wait. What the boys at the post office want to know is how Pancho knows that he's early or late.

Klepeis Is Cited For Heroic Action



WALT KLEPEIS

First Lieut. Walter J. Klepeis, son of Mrs. Rose Klepeis of Le-Fever Falls and the late Edward Klepeis, has been cited for "heroic action" in Korea.

Lieut. Klepeis, artillery forward observer with Company C, 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with the letter V device by Brigadier General Wayne C. Smith, commanding officer.

According to the citation which accompanied the award Lieut. Klepeis distinguished himself "by heroic achievement near Chich'on, North Korea, on 14 August 1952.

"During a battalion attack, he directed the fire of supporting artillery weapons with calculated and methodical actions producing superior results. With rapid and accurate adjustments despite intense enemy fire, he controlled as many as four separate missions in such an outstanding manner as to enable the battalion to successfully accomplish its mission. Although First Lieutenant Klepeis remained on duty as forward observer for a continuous period of 24 hours, he did not once fail to accurately place friendly fire and was able to provide assistance to the forward observer for the 4.2 inch mortars in the adjustment of his mortar support. The heroic action displayed by First Lieutenant Klepeis reflects great credit on himself and the military service."

Mrs. Adams Chosen

cided to appoint a committee to begin laying plans for conducting the campaign next March.

A discussion was held on the blood program for military use and also the civilian blood program which is being conducted in many localities. The next visit of the Red Cross "bloodmobile" to secure blood for the military will probably be in New Paltz. That date will be announced later.

'Bombing' Staged In Times Square

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Times Square area was "bombed" last night in a test of Civil Defense Corps preparations.

Hundreds of air raid sirens were sounded as enemy bombers (actually U. S. Air Force planes) flew overhead. Pots of colored fire were lighted on the roofs of 18 buildings to add to the effect.

The tests took place all over the city, but the big drill was in the busy midtown Broadway area.

At Bryant Park, near the public library, huge searchlights were trained on the planes.

Fire apparatus rushed through the city and threw up screens of water at the "burning" buildings. Many civil defense personnel were drenched.

The raid was complete with wrecking crews equipped with derricks, litter-borne "casualties," and a water main "burst."

On the whole, the raid did not disrupt the city's normal activity except that some hotel elevators were stopped and some pedestrains were herded out of the way of civil defense workers.

Subways continued running, and stores and restaurants remained open.

Elevator Operators Strike

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—A strike of about 1,350 Chicago elevator operators today practically paralyzed 143 office buildings and forced about 400,000 office workers either to climb stairways or stay away from their jobs. The chief issues are a union demand for a cut in the work week from 48 to 40 hours, and an unspecified wage hike.

Pleasant Fall Weather Favors Wide U. S. Area

(By The Associated Press)

More pleasant fall weather appeared in prospect for wide areas of the country today.

It was a little cooler in the north central region and northern New England. The cool Canadian air spread southward over the Dakotas and Montana this morning and headed for north central regions. Temperatures dropped to freezing in Caribou, Me. early today.

But warm weather continued in the lower and middle Mississippi valley and the west gulf and central plains states. Record high readings—in the 90's—were reported for the day in parts of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri yesterday.

Only shower activity early today was in the upper Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Skies were clear in other areas.

Postal Clerks Are To Meet Sunday

Kingston Local, 4770, National Federation of Post Office Clerks (AFL) will be host for the Eastern New York sectional meeting of the organization at 2 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 5, at the Elks Club, 259 Fair street.

Speakers will include Congressman J. Ernest Wharton; Orlando Francione, newly elected national vice-president of the organization; Everett Credo, president of the New York state federation; Patrick J. Fitzgerald, president of Local No. 10, New York, and Mrs. M. Langley, national vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the federation.

Other invited guests include Senator Irving Ives, John Cashmore, Democratic nominee for congressman, and Ephraim Handman, former national vice-president of the federation.

William P. Barry, secretary of Local 4770, said today that all postal clerks and their wives from Kingston and from Hudson valley offices from New York to Troy were cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Truman said the Democrats "won't let propaganda about socialism scare us into failing to develop our resources."

He said the only possible action taken by the Republicans in 20 long years of opposition to public power was to pass a special act of Congress "to change the name of Boulder Dam to Hoover Dam."

While the Democrats have made the northwest "a richer, happier, more productive and more independent region," he said, the Republicans repeat their slogan of "creeping socialism."

Truman planned whistle stop talks today at Eureka, Libby and Troy, Mont., and Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint, Idaho, en route to Spokane, Wash., for a major speech tonight.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
SATURDAY, OCT. 4th from 1:00 to 3:30 P.M.
Beautena's a big, growthy heifer now with a nice spring of ribs and very little fat. Yes, at 5 months of age, she's the type of heifer you'd like for your future herd. She's been raised the Purina way - - - on Purina Calf Startena and Purina D & F Chow.
Come to her party, Saturday, look her over and guess her weight. The 3 dairymen guessing closest will be awarded prizes.
PURINA CALF STARTENA
PURINA D&F CHOW
While we are serving free coffee and doughnuts, let us show you how the Purina calf and heifer growing program can make money for you.
